Canton crime continues to rise

A BIT OF FUN in the snow was provided for residents of the Plymouth Center for Human Development as 30 members of the Siberian Husky Club of Southeastern Michigan hitched up their dog sleds at the Center grounds earlier this month.

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—"It's no secret, we're going through some hard times, "commented Inspector Dick Novak, head of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol.

"Hard times in the road patrol are amply supported by township crime statistics. Virtually every category of crime in Canton Township registered an increase in 1974, and in some categories activity doubled.

The increase in crime can be attributed to the economy and to the township's population increase, according to Novak.

"The growth in the out-county regions has been tremendous. Canton is growing so much, and they have big business coming in. Meijer's put in an estate out there.

"WE HAVE NO extra manpower. The amount of men we have to cover Canton and the other townships is the same despite the growth they've been experiencing.

"It's bumper to bumper and house to house out to the county line, and when you have that kind of rise in population and business, you have to expect a proportional rise in crime.

"We're doing the best we can but without more men it's hard. All that electronic stuff is nice, but you have to have the guys in the trenches—right out there on the street. You can have all the gadgets in the world but, if you don't have the guys there to bust them on the street, it's no good."

Road patrol manpower has decreased according to a suit filed by seven Wayne County townships, including Canton and Plymouth, against the Sheriff and the county commissioners. The suit asks that manpower be increased, with the county footing the entire bill.

In an eight year period, from 1967 to the present time, the number of sheriff's deputies patrolling the out-county areas has decreased from 43 men to 28, the records state.

OF THE SEVEN townships involved in the suit, Canton incurred the highest 1974 increase in crime, according to sheriff's statistics. Some of those increases, comparing 1973 figures to those for 1974 are:

•Burglaries from business rose 102 per cent, from 43 reports to 87.

•Larcenies from businesses skyrocketed from 57 to 130, an increase of 137 per cent.

•Larcenies from automobiles jumped from 73 to 147, a 101 per cent hike.

•Narcotics calls were up 85 per cent, as the caseload rose from 14 to 26.

•Theft of bicycles was up 95 per cent, with 39 more cases than the 41 reported in 1973.

•Theft of automobiles was up 22 per cent, from 83 to 102.

•Felonious assault increased 21 per cent with a total of 34 cases reported, more than in the previous year.

•Child abuse cases rose 88 per cent, from 9 cases to 17.

NOT ALL increases were as dramatic. Other areas of crime evidenced a smaller increase or a decrease. Armed robberies declined from 11 cases in 1973 to nine in 1974.

Some of the smaller increases were:

•Burglaries of homes, up seven per cent from 190 cases to 205.

•Rape, nine cases for '74 as compared to eight in '73.

•Kidnap, three cases in 1974 as compared to two in 1973.

Total complaints were up 14 per cent for 1974, as 6,226 calls were received from Canton by the Sheriff. Arrests increased 13 per cent from 219 in 1973 to 253 in 1974.

Complaint figures included all calls made to the sheriff, whether criminal or not. They also included gun registrations.

For the first year in three, there were no murders reported to the road patrol from Canton, although attempted homicides rose from zero to two.

If there is any good news to be gleaned from the sheriff's figures for 1974, it is in the area of traffic accidents.

Reported accidents fell from 590 cases to 572, while injuries from accidents were off five per cent from 318 to 299. Fatal accidents declined from five to four. Hit and run accidents, however, jumped 40 per cent from 57 cases in 1973 to 80 in 1974.

Although the accident figures were lower for 1974, of the other six townships only Van Buren had a higher number of accidents and highway deaths.

Novak explained the decrease in accidents in terms of higher gas prices and unemployment. "People are finally starting to cut down on their driving. We've got fewer kids on the streets, and those that are aren't hot-dogging as much.

GAS PRICES are way up and that's what I have always said, you punish the people in the wallet and they stop doing it. In this case it's the economy doing the punishing."

State Police figures, while incomplete, also revealed a significant rise in crime for Canton. Breaking and enterings were up 18 per cent, larcenies were up 113 per cent and bicycle thefts were up 80 per cent.

The prospects for the future don't look good according to Novak and Trooper Michael Garrison of the State Police. Commented Garrison: "You don't even see the shoplifting figure increases in this data (state), but we've been getting one or two calls a day alone at Meijer's.

Novak added, "As long as the economy is bad, things will continue to get bad in the way of crime. Manpower increases will help us hold to the status quo, but the answer is in the economy and in people realizing that when you live in an area like Canton that is growing so fast, you have to consider expanding law enforcement like you do the water department, the DPW and everything else.

"As far as the economy, people get used to a certain level of living and when the paychecks stop coming in, they still want to maintain that level.

"If the economy gets better we can expect burglaries to fall off. If it doesn't after a while, the homeowner won't have anything left to steal. Everybody is spending less including the homeowner and there's less for the burglar."

The inspector also said better coordination was needed between all police agencies in the Wayne County area. He explained, "Right now we've got too many chiefs and not enough Indians."

Greenstein denies conflict in hiring

CANTON—Township Supervisor Robert Greenstein and his secretary again have denied any wrongdoing or nepotism in the hiring of Bruce Phillips, his secretary's husband, as assistant ordinance officer.

Greenstein hired Phillips with federal funds under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA). If the appointment stands, Phillips also will undertake the work of census coordinator.

The charges were made at the Feb. 11 township board meeting by Trustee Brian Schwall, who contended Phillips' hiring violated the nepotism section of CETA because Mrs. Phillips participated in the hiring and supervision of CETA personnel.

Later, charges were made and complaints filed with the Wayne County Center for Manpower, alleging the hiring took place prior to advertisements appearing in the newspapers and the hiring violated the political affiliation section of the federal act.

GREENSTEIN and Mrs. Phillips said it was impossible for Phillips to have been hired before the ads appeared, and Mrs. Phillips denied any direct involvement in the hiring.

Greenstein used the occasion to take a few pokes of his own at Schwall. "Nothing wrong occurred in the hiring of Bruce Phillips, and I condemn the unethical practice so often used by Schwall of making inflammatory accusations and then running around afterwards trying to support them," said the supervisor. "He doesn't do his homework, and he makes these charges and has to run around to back them."

Schwall's response: "I have no comment. Those charges are not worthy of comment."

Greenstein and Mrs. Phillips also resplied to the complaint of John Martell, of Plymouth, an unsuccessful applicant for the CETA-funded post. Martell charged Mrs. Phillips told them the positions had been filled prior to publication of the advertisements Jan. 29 and 30.

"THERE WAS NO possible way anyone was hired before the advertisements came out," said Greenstein. "Bruce Phillips and the other CETA employes were hired on Monday, Feb. 3."

Said Mrs. Phillips: "Mr. Martell did call us on Feb. 3, and I remember him because he was so unpleasant on the phone. He called after the people had been hired. We had lots of applications before the ads because a (news) story appeared Jan. 15, two weeks before the ads.

"When I told him the positions had been filled, he wanted to know why he hadn't been interviewed. I told him Carl (Parsell, township treasurer) had screened the applications and interviewed those he had picked from the applications. Carl said there was no way they could interview everybody, so they eliminated some of the applications after screening them.

"I had nothing to do with it," said Mrs. Phillips, adding the actual hiring had been done by Supervisor Greenstein, Treasurer Parsell and Clerk John Flodin.

A FORMAL ruling from CETA officials on the nepotism charges had been expected Tuesday, but it was postponed until "sufficient documentation was available," according to a spokesman for the Wayne County Office of Manpower.

Greenstein said he and Parsell talked Tuesday with Tom Brady, manpower office coordinator. Greenstein said they discussed Mrs. Phillips' job and role in the township office.

"She is my secretary," said Greenstein, "and while she supervises the workload in the office, she doesn't hire, fire or discipline other employes. She is not in a supervisory or hiring capacity, and that means Bruce Phillips' hiring does not violate CETA guidelines on nepotism."

TOWNSHIP ATTORNEY William Sempliner wrote Greenstein a letter saying Phillips' hiring was legal.

Sempliner said, "She (Mrs. Phillips) does not hire or fire and has no authority to impose discipline. She does sometimes relay the orders of the supervisor and other elected officials to the affected employe and does direct the flow of work in the township office; but these functions are purely ministerial and not on her own initiative. Under these conditions, the hiring of her husband by the township cannot be 'nepotism.' "

Bicentennial plans remain unclear

By DARLENE STINSON

The year 1976 may seem a long way off, but, for local bicentennial commissions, it's sooner than they may think.

Despite a Dec. 31, 1975 deadline for applications seeking state bicentennial funds, Howard Lancour, executive director of the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, said the state's bicentennial kitty may be inadequate to go around.

"There is that possiblity," Lancour said. "Here we are in February, 1975, and the thing is almost upon us. There is the possibility that communities could lose funds, if they aren't geared up and ready for projects."

To receive state or federal funds, communities must submit project plans to the Michigan Bicentennial Commission.

But committees for the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township have barely begun formulating ideas for theirs, while Canton Township holds a blank drawing board for its 1976 project.

Plymouth Township's bicentennial commission, composed of chairman Bruce Richard, Herald Hamill, Sam Hudson, Joanne Hulce and Brian Kidston, has met only once so far and, according to Richard, "kicked around a few ideas."

"We haven't picked up anything firm as far as a project goes," Richard said, "but we want to get as many people involved as possible."

Township commission members have agreed to seek two additional members for the committee— a youth and an industry representative. Richard said he has already contacted Ford Motor Co. about an industrial representative, but Ford has not yet responded.

In addition, Richard said, the commission hopes to sponsor such possible bicentennial actitivies as an essay contest or contest to submit project ideas within the schools.

Whatever type of project is implemented, Richard hopes to spur community involvement. Persons with ideas for a township project are asked to contact Richard at 9417 Ivanhoe, Plymouth 48170.

Projects will probably follow loose guidelines, suggested by the federal American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), Richard said.

The ARBA has recommended three-faceted projects including a "Heritage '76" phase, recalling the heritage of municipalities, counties and the country; festivals; and "Horizon '76," projects looking toward the future.

Richard said township commission members have discussed among themselves the possiblity of a joint project with the City of Plymouth and Northville Township.

The commission for the City of Plymouth also hopes to follow ARBA guidelines and implement projects looking toward the past, present and future.

That committee, composed of co-chairpersons Margaret Dunning and Clarence Moore and members Elizabeth Simescu, Elizabeth Folger and Chester Haynes, have met twice so far, but project content is still up in the air.

"We're not sure of any of our projects yet," said Mrs. Dunning, "but I think there will be some decisions very shortly."

Canton Township's commission has accomplished even less.

Joseph De Lauro, appointed as the township's bicentennial commission chairman on Dec. 10, has not yet gathered residents for the commission. As a result, no ideas have been discussed.

To get off the ground, any project will require funds.

City Manager Fred Yockey said the City of Plymouth has set aside $1,000 for bicentennial projects, but the actual allocation will be subject to city commission approval.

Retreat planned on master plan

CANTON—Township board members and planning commissioners may soon take "a weekend retreat" to expedite action on the master land use plan.

At Tuesday's meeting of the commission, township planner and consultant Mike Manore suggested township officials set aside the weekend of April 4-6 for a three-day study session on the new land plan.

Commented Manore, "I wanted to bring this idea to the attention of the planning commission. I have investigated the possibility of this sort of intensive study session and I think I have found the right site."

Manore suggested using an overnight facility called Walden Woods near Hartland, Michigan. He said, "It's a secluded area and its not too expensive. They have 18 rooms and can accommodate 25 people.

"In the past we have found this type of intensive study session is profitable as it has proved successful for other communities.

"We can concentrate on the problems and we can devote ourselves full time towards working out the master land use plan.

"It's important we get going on the plan, because right now business before the planning commission is slow due to the economy. When it picks up we won't have as much time to devote to the plan.

"We have worked together in two- and three-hour study sessions. But they are too fragmented. A full weekend could help us accomplish much."

As suggested, the weekend study session would involve no "decisive" action. It would be devoted to working out solutions to problem areas in the land use document.

The cost of the working weekend is estimated by Manore at $60 a person, with the township picking up the tab.

Supervisor Greenstein said that even at $60 a person the work generated and the time saved would represent a net gain for the township. He said, "If we held two special three-hour meetings we would pay the planning commission members and the board trustees that much." Since this is not official business they won't get paid for a meeting." Manore added.

LaRue to leave S'craft board; question is, will seat be filled?

By DENNY COFFMAN

John M. LaRue has announced he will not seek another term on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees after his present term expires June 30, 1975.

LaRue, chairman of the board and a member since 1969, says he plans to move to Seattle, probably by the end of the year.

He says he feels the college "has been making very fine progress. Probably my greatest satisfaction has been the opportunity to work with the other members of the board and the administration and all those associated with the college."

FINANCING HAS been and will continue to be the school's biggest problem, according to LaRue, who recommends controlled rather than very rapid expansion.

"I realize now you can't do things overnight. Like the Fine Arts Building. I was hoping this project would be farther along, but I see this was not in the cards."

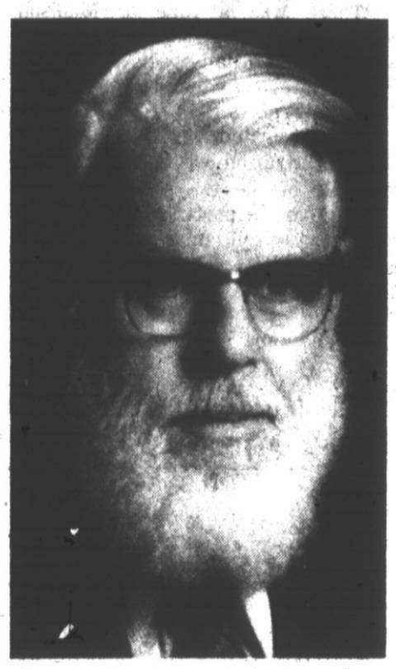

The fine arts project remains in a state of limbo, though plans had been drawn up for the proposed $3 million complex, which would have provided facilities for cultural, entertainment and instructional events.

LaRue considers the building's failure to materialize as his greatest disappointment as a board member.

"But I realize there has to be sound growth. "You can't get to a situation faster than you can accomodate the situation. I don't believe in growth for growth's sake."

LaRUE, 59, has seen the college grow from a 1969-70 school year enrollment of about 5,000 to its present 9,000.

He recommends cooperation with what he calls the school's "sister institutions"—the other colleges and community colleges in the area.

JOHN M. LaRUE

"We can't do it all ourselves."

LaRue says the college will face a challenge in attempting to create an image for itself out of the many areas it serves.

"We have difficulty in getting visibility because there are so many competing elements in the five school district area (Plymouth, Garden City, Northville, Clarenceville and Livonia). "I wish we could consider it one distinct college district rather than five local school districts."

LaRue has a science-math education and background and was a researcher for the Bendix Corp.

"It's too bad we can't run controlled experiments on the board of trustees the way we do in science. On the board, if we make a guess and it doesn't work, we have a different kind of problem the next time around."

LaRue had been involved in some of the nation's earliest attempts at environmental protection during the late forties. One project tried to catch fly ashes produced from burning powdered coal by using electrical precipitation.

LaRue, who describes himself as "basically technical," is a University of Michigan graduate and studied nuclear reactors at the School for Reactor Technology, Oak Ridge, Tenn. in 1950-51.

"I still feel breeder reactors offer one of the best possibilities for solving the energy situation. But they haven't come along as fast as anticipated."

LaRue's wife Barbara started the League of Women Voters in Livonia and served on the State Board of Education and the Council on Regional Development (CORD).

The LaRues live in Livonia and have three children.

LaRUE'S announcement that he would not run again touched off a lengthy discussion at a Feb. 12 board meeting over the size of the board of trustees.

There are now eight members and LaRue's departure would reduce the number to seven, where it would remain unless an election were held for a new member.

All except two members (Rosina Raymond and Nancie Blatt) favored a seven-person board.

Mrs. Raymond and Mrs. Blatt suggested electing nine members. Only one community college district has nine members—the Delta District, composed of Bay City, Saginaw and Midland.

"Eight is ridiculous," said Mrs. Raymond, pointing out the difficulty in obtaining a majority with an even-numbered board.

"The more we're like the other districts, the better," said Leroy Bennett. Other districts have seven.

Mrs. Raymond contended that larger communities, such as Livonia, would be under-represented on a seven-person board, though they contribute larger amounts of tax dollars.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Schoolcraft College president, advised the members to determine the correct constitutional procedure for reducing the number before taking action.

And LaRue, who started all the controversey by announcing his departure, said he favored a change in the size of the board—to seven members.

Indian aid drive needs cans of food

A goal of 2,000 cans of food has been set by persons conducting a drive to aid Indians on the western side of the state.

The drive is the work of the Indian affairs committee of the Western Wayne County Conservation Association. Drive Chairman Hank Chruscial is collecting the goods at his home, 19345 Brentwood (east of Middle Belt, north of Seven Mile), Livonia.

"We have lots of clothing and toys for Indian children," said Chruscial, "but we have only four cans of food. We'd like to make a delivery March 15. The people there are in a bad way, with harvesting jobs being unavailable now, and we'd like to pass our goal of 2,000 cans of food."

The conservation club's committee makes trips two or three times a year to help Indian settlements and schools ranging from the Berrien Springs area north to Muskegon County, Harbor Springs and the upper peninsula.

Pursell continues as crown prince maker

In the game of politics, where some like to be known as "king makers," State Sen. Carl Pursell is becoming known as a "crown prince maker."

For the third state convention in a row, Pursell (R-Plymouth) played a role in getting a young person nominated or elected by Michigan Republican delegates.

His winner last weekend in Grand Rapids was Ken Lashuay, 19, who won a two-ballot victory for the third (youth) vice chairmanship of the GOP State Central Committee.

Pursell circulated a letter to delegates on behalf of Lashuay, a sophomore at Michigan State University's James Madison College and a teen party activist in his home of Midland.

Two years ago, Pursell was a key strategist and floor manager when Mary Egbert of Northville won the third vice chairmanship.

And in 1972, Pursell was in the middle of the campaign to get a State Board of Education nomination for William Sederburg, a 25-year-old graduate student at MSU. Sederburg was the youngest person on the Republican ticket that year and won the election.

W-W food program criticized

By STEVE BARNABY

WESTLAND — Students in the Wayne-Westland School District should have an alternative lunch program to promote more nutritional foods, according to Lynn Ehrle, Franklin Junior High School teacher.

The suggestion was made at this week's board meeting where Ehrle announced he will present an alternative program for students to shop at Detroit's Eastern Market. Ehrle has been critical of the food service offered in the district.

Although agreeing with much of Ehrle's criticism of the foods eaten by students, Supt. Timothy Dyer says it is extremely difficult to impose eating standards on them.

"To impose my standards on others would defeat the idea of democracy," said Dyer, in response to Ehrle's plea.

Ehrle said the ditrict's food program concentrates more on starchy junk foods than on foods offering nutrition.

"There needs to be a full blown educational program on the types of foods students should eat," said Ehrle. "But instead, every time you turn around there is a candy sale in a school. This has got to be stopped. The schools have to stop playing the candy man."

THE DISTRICT'S cafeteria program is supplemented by free surplus commodities from the federal government. From the commodities Type A program, the district receives such items as flour, canned vegetables, rice and peanut butter. Recently, the government has been stressing items high in protein such as cheese, turkey rolls, boned chicken, hot dogs and ground beef.

While the junior high schools for the most part serve the type A lunches, John Glenn serves a variety of a la carte items. At Wayne Memorial meals for students are entirely a la carte.

Ehrle said the widespread consumption of such things as pop, potato chips and whole white milk are harming the students' health.

The district is caving in to the television advertising industry by not providing alternative means of consumer education said Ehrle.

"We are involved in a self defeating program if the students aren't given information on nutrition," said Ehrle.

DYER DISAGREED with Ehrle's accusation that students aren't receiving lessons in consumer education.

"I challenge Mr. Ehrle on his his criticism of consumer education. Back in 1961 when I was a teacher I taught consumer education in classes like economics," said Dyer. "We do alert the students to the problems in the market place."

Dyer said consumer education has to be spread across the spectrum of education and cannot be isolated in one course.

A parent from Madison School supported Ehrle's allegation that junk food was prominent in the school system.

"There was a time at Madison when orange pop and potato chips were sold on a daily basis," she said. "It's bad enough that now it is sold just on Fridays."

Dyer indicated the sale of such items at Madison was done at the prerogative of the the school's PTA.

The Madison parent said it is a futile battle to tell children to eat good, nutritional foods at home, while the school appeared to be promoting junk foods.

Trustee Anne Harbison said that students soon would have the choice between skimmed, low fat and whole milk because federal guidelines now allowed for skimmed and low fat milk.

Wayne Memorial has a student committee which monitors the food program. The committee periodically meets with a representative from the private company catering the school's food and one of the assistant principals to discuss various food requests.

One of the recent acts of the committee was to send several members to a school board meeting to protest the introduction of the type A program into Wayne Memorial.

Goals lack teacher input

WESTLAND — Most teachers are unaware of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools outline of goals, according to a report from the Wayne-Westland Education Association, which was presented to the board this week.

The report was in response to an in-depth outline presented to the board last month and given approval at this week's meeting.

In composing the the goals, the administration prioritized them in numerical order, fron one to five. Categories considered were administration, business and finance, curriculum and instruction, physical plant and maintenance, personnel and community relations, and general transcending goals not directly concerned with departments.

The WWEA recommended that the derivation of the goals be broadened to include the maximum input and agreement by the teaching staff.

CONCERNING the administrations statement on the completion of building goals and objectives, the WWEA said, "When asked about the existence of finalized goals most teachers we've checked with have little awareness of their existence. This would indicate to us that if, in fact, such goals and objectives have been determined and finalized, their contents are typically a well kept secret from the teaching staff."

The union report warned against making the building goals a matter of personal use for administrators, saying it would cause negative feelings in the teachers' ranks.

To avoid such a reaction the WWEA suggests:

- Setting of goals and objectives must include teachers' input.
- The objectives should represent a broad staff consensus.
- The goals and objectives shouldn't impinge on the academic freedom of and perogatives of the individual teacher.
- The goals should be clearly stated and routinely publicized to staff members.
- The goals be mutually determined by teachers and administrators.
- Diverse and multiple methods of implementing goals should be encouraged.
- Teachers must have "meaningful and significant" involvement in processes established to evaluate the attainment of goals.
- Teachers must be provided adequate and compensated time, away from regular duties, for formulating reviewing and updating annually building goals and objectives.
- Teachers must receive adequate training in the methods and processes of gaol identification and formulation.

THE WWEA concurred with the administration goal of enhancing the working relationship with bargaining units.

"We wish to go on record as giving this 'goal our highest organizational priority ," stated the union report. "We believe the current administration has demonstrated maturity and understanding of the appropriate labor-management relationship."

To improve the relationship, the union recommended that four or five informal gatherings between the school board and WWEA executive board be conducted. The union also recommended that joint workshops between buiding administrators and WWEA building representatives be conducted.

The workshops, saus the union, would focus on such as contract interpretation, role definitions, grievance philosophy and

Concerning the district's goals related to curriculum and instruction, the union expressed confusion over what it feels is generalizations. It also expressed a lack of knowledge over such things as an accountability model.

"How could we be inserviced in the practical adoption of the model when we didn't know it existed, let alone of what it comprised?"said the union statement.

THE UNION believes teachers should have the freedom to pick and chose between inserivce programs. In serive concepts under consideration are elemnetary reading textbooks, reading management, sex education, and district accountability model. Offering technical assistance for classroom teachers is another goal.

The union gives hearty support to revamping the substitute teaching system.

"The WWEA believes that substitute teachers will very soon become an integral and legitimate part of the institutional educational milieu. In short, we agree with the stated goal and and would urge that the concept of a supplemental teaching staff be given serious consideration during this examination."

The union also backed the idea of developing an in-service program for administrators in handling personnel problems.

"Our experience indicates that many front line administrators and supervisors are inadequately schooled in the areas mentioned in this goal We assume this condition exists simply because of lack of emphasis. In other words, other matters have historically been given higher priority."

Pioneer hosts statewide confab

PLYMOUTH— Four hundred to 600 teachers and administrators from around the state will jam the Plymouth Community School District next week for the fifth Annual Michigan Association of Middle School Educators (MAMSE) Conference.

Scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 27, and Friday, Feb. 28, in Pioneer Middle School, the conference, entitled "The Between-Agers," will feature seminars, small group conferences and rap sessions.

Dr. Nicholas P. Georgiady, professor of education at Miami University of Ohio will speak on the "between-agers," and Dr. Jack Riegle, associate professor of education at Ball State University will speak on accomplishments of that age group.

THE CONFERENCE marks the first MAMSE event the Plymouth Community School District has sponsored in MAMSE's five-year history.

All middle school teachers and administrators in the district will attend the conference, according to Gerald Elston, principal of Pioneer Middle School, as the event is scheduled for two teacher inservice days, when classes will not be held.

Only 10 to 15 district representatives have attended former conferences, held in East Lansing, Flint, Okemos and Saginaw, Elston said.

"The biggest advantage of having the conference in our district is the exposure to our staff," Elston said. "They're going to see programs used throughout the state, and they'll have the opportunity to meet middle school teachers from all over the state.

"Probably the biggest thing we're hoping to gain is for our staff to get an idea of what teaching direction to go in and receive reassurance they're already going in the right direction."

PIONEER WAS chosen as the conference site in November, 1973, Elston said, when Central Middle School teacher Dolly McMaster, now MAMSE president-elect, asked middle school principals of their interest in hosting the event.

Response was good, Elston said. Pioneer was chosen because of the flexibility its moving doors and walls provide.

Preparation for the hosting event began in April, 1974, when Elston began meeting with MAMSE officials in Lansing on a monthly basis.

Responsibility for the event was disbursed throughout the district's middle schools, Elston said. The staff of West Middle School outlined the basic structure of the program, while East Middle School's staff took on the responsiblity of printed maps and programs.

The Central Middle School staff gathered educational materials such as books and audio-visual displays for exhibit at the conference, arranged a Thursday evening banquet in the Mayflower Meeting House, booked speakers and gathered information on nearby hotels for visitors.

Elston said Pioneer's hosting staff arranged the mechanics of the program, as it prepared classrooms for the coming event an engaged the services of 42 students, who will direct visitors throughout the school.

In exchange for their efforts, teachers or administrators who have worked on the program will not be charged the $9 member registration or $11.50 non-member registration fees, Elston said.

THE CONFERENCE is self-supporting, Elston added, posing no cost to the Plymouth School District other than possible bus driver salaries.

If the day is wet and muddy, he explained, visitors will park at Plymouth Canton High School and ride buses to the conference site. Visitors will park on the athletic fjeld behind Pioneer Middle School, if the day is clear and dry.

The conference will begin Thursday with 9 a.m. registration. Idea-sharing sessions, in which teachers and administrators casually meet to discuss programs and common problems, will follow.

Seminars, in which middle school teachers will present unusual programs at their schools, will be featured throughout the two-day conference.

Seminars, which Plymouth staff members are scheduled to present, include: creativity in general music; Pioneer's "imaginary continent" approach to geography; Pioneer's spiral reading program; East's home living program; creative writing for the "between-ager"; West's elective program; gaining community support for middle school programs; Pioneer's radio station and drama program; transactional analysis; Pioneer's career unit; and West's laboratory approach to science.

Matzo to head planning commission

CANTON—Tuesday was election night for the planning commissioners and a new chairman, vice chairman, and secretary were selected.

Augustin (Gus) Matzo was elected to fill the shoes of outgoing Joseph Kinnick as chairman while Bob Miller was voted vice chairman. Flossie Tonda ran unopposed for secretary.

Matzo was elected by a vote of 4-1 over Bob Simmons. Both Simmons, the former vice chairman, and outgoing chairman Joseph Kinnick were absent.

The new chairman was appointed to the commission on Dec. 10 last year to replace retiring commissioner Wes Kaiser. A resident of Holiday Park subdivision, he led the subdivision's fight against the Joy Road bridge at the I-275 interchange near Holiday Park.

Supervisor Robert Greenstein worked with him in that effort and subsequently praised him as a "thorough, organized and professional man whose background in planning and knowledge of computers should be of assistance to the planning commission."

Matzo, 39, works for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in Ann Arbor and has a degree in chemical engineering. He is chief of data operations there.

Matzo said his main objective would be to improve public hearings conducted by the commission. "If I have seen one flaw since I have been on the planning commission it is in the area of public hearings. I don't think enough effort has been made or enough opportunity granted for residents to speak out. I hope to see more citizen input in public hearings while I am chairman."

He also said, "Another problem I have seen is the length of meetings. I think that if in the future we adopted a stricter and more professional procedure we could shorten the meetings. I don't mean following Robert's Rules of Order strictly, but just imposing a little more order in the meetings."

He added, "It would make me proud to be chairman during the time the master land use plan is adopted and I hope that final action is taken during my term."

Miller, president of the Northwest Canton Homeowner's Association is also a new appointee to the commission. He was selected by the board to fill the vacancy left by retiring commissioner Robert Shefferly. He was appointed to a 30-day interim term in November and then to a full three-year term on Dec. 10. He defeated Flossie Tonda for vice chairman by a 3-2 margin.

Nominations were closed before an opponent could be selected to run against Mrs. Tonda and she was elected to the position unanimously.

Correction

CANTON—In the Monday, Feb. 17 edition of the Canton Observer & Eccentric it was reported that Trustee Robert Myers was appointed to the civil service commission by a unanimous vote of the township board.

The actual vote was 4-2 with Myers abstaining and trustees James Poole and Brian Schwall voting against Myers' appointment.

Buys 'stock car'

Bicentennial plans unclear

ects will probably stem from fund-raising activities or future township allocations.

In addition, federal and state funds are available from the Michigan Bicentennial Commission on a matching grant basis, under which municipalities receive the same amount of money they put forth.

Although the state commission's kitty is expected to reach the $500,000 mark, Lancour said the fund may be unable to accomodate all requests for financial help.

"It's not going to be possible to accomodate all," Lancour said. "That's why I think it's imperative for local communities to get those requests in.

"The commission is looking at all applications submitted so far with that in mind," he said.

Lancour added that $62,000 in grants has already been awarded.

To receive grant funds, communities must submit proposed projects for the state commission's scrutiny. Funding guidelines for the "heritage" category of projects must relate to the past and generally exclude projects created by individual artists, Lancour said.

Funds for many bicentennial art projects are available from the Michigan Council of the Arts, Lancour explained.

"It gets into another area," he said. "But I'm hesitant to say that, because we'd have to look at the project."

Although some communities have requested grants as high as $50,000, Lancour said the commission has shaved actual grants to $10,000 or $12,000 to ensure that funds are available for the greatest number of communities.

The commission will soon establish funding guidelines for "festival" and "horizon" projects, he said.

Regarding festivals, Lancour added, "It would be easy for ongoing festivals in Michigan to apply for funds. We don't want to grant money that will go into their existing projects, unless there's something bicentennial about them."

TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH
BOARD OF TRUSTEES - REGULAR MEETING
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1975

In the absence of Supervisor McLaren, Mrs. Richardson called the meeting to order at 8:00 P.M. All members were present with the exception of Mr. McLaren.
Mr. Russell Ash moved that Gerald Burke serve as temporary Chairman for this meeting. Supported by Mr. Millington and carried unanimously.
READING, CORRECTING AND APPROVAL OF MINUTES - Mr. West moved approval of the minutes of the Regular meeting of January 28, 1975, as submitted. Supported by Mr. Gornick and carried unanimously.
READING, CORRECTING AND APPROVAL OF BILLS - Mrs. Richardson informed the Board that the Township is withholding $100 from Fire Trucks, Inc. for Repair of the 1962 American LaFrance Pumper, changing their total to $6,038.00. This changes the total General Fund to $25,056.86 and the Grand Total to $29,529.08.
Mr. Millington asked about the bill to District Court, 35th Judicial District, for the 1st quarter payment plus 20% additional, in the amount of $10,588.09. Mrs. Richardson stated that Northville City wrote a letter to the District Court Judge which stated that they would rather make their payment based on last year's request and made an adjustment when the Budget was firm and it would be up to our Board to make the decision as to the quarterly payment per last year in the amount of $8,823.41 or with the 20% additional in the amount of $10,588.09. Mr. Millington felt this would give them an open book to do whatever they wanted.
Mr. Millington moved to pay the District Court, 35th Judicial District, the quarterly payment as per last year in the amount of $8,823.41 because the District Court has not submitted a budget. Supported by Mr. Ash and carried unanimously.
Mr. Ash moved that the bills be paid as listed and as revised at this meeting, namely, withholding $100 from Fire Trucks Inc. and withholding 20% from the District Court. Supported by Mr. Millington and carried unanimously.
Brender-Hamill & Associates - Re: Plat of Plymouth Joy Subdivision - East side of Tonquish Creek at Joy Road. Loren Gould, Developer, regarding the Joy Road Culvert.
Mr. Hamill stated that Mr. Gould has had a preliminary plat in since 1972 which was approved by the Planning Commission and the Township Board. The major portion of Mr. Gould's property is in the flood plain of Tonquish Creek. The Department of Natural Resources has jurisdiction over the flood plain and refuse to give Mr. Gould an okay on the plat. Mr. Hamill recommended a solution would be to increase the size of the bridge across Joy Road or to pave the bottom of the channel, however, both solutions would involve a large expenditure of funds.
Mr. Millington felt that this is only a portion of the western part of the Township and possibly the Township should look at the entire picture. Mr. Burke asked if the building of retention basins in the western part of the Township would alleviate the whole problem, Mr. Hamill replying that this would help.
Mr. Gould informed the Board that he was going to abandon the original plan, however, he now feels some of the property can be salvaged, with approximately half of the ten acres lost. Mrs. Richardson commented that the Board is spending taxpayers money and this is only one problem with an expenditure of approximately $360,000, and feels there could be a more definite need than what is shown.
Mrs. Richardson moved that the Township Board not proceed with this particular project at this time. Supported by Mr. Gornick and carried unanimously.
NEW BUSINESS - Brender Hamill & Associates, Inc. - Re: Westbriar Village Subdivision - Corner of Joy Road and McClumpha Road - requesting a policy on whether to proceed on the basis of retention basins. Mr. Gornick moved that the Supervisor appoint a committee of five, consisting of Mr. Hamill, Mr. Kincade, Mr. Briggs, and two appointees by the Supervisor, to study the entire storm drainage pattern in the Township and come back to the Board with specific recommendations as to alternatives, cost of such alternatives to the Township, in terms of land acquisition cost, bond issue, or as much detail as possible.
Supported by Mr. Ash and carried unanimously.
Helen Richardson, Clerk - Re: Transfer of Funds - Mr. Gornick moved approval of the transfer of funds as requested by the Clerk with the amended amount for the District Court. (Changing Transfer request from $4,957.77 to $3,193.09). Supported by Mr. West and carried unanimously.
James E. Gignac, Fire Chief - Re: Requesting permission to attend 18th Seminar and Training Course in Arson Detection and Investigation to be held at the University of Michigan on March 4, 5, and 6, 1975. Mr. Millington moved that this item be referred to the Supervisor for his disposition. Supported by Mrs. Richardson and carried unanimously.
Brender-Hamill & Associates Inc. - Re: Recommending acceptance of utilities for tapping purposes on Plymouth Square Apartment Phase II. Mr. Ash moved approval of the recommendation of the Township Engineers for acceptance of utilities for tapping purposes on Plymouth Square Apartment Phase II. Supported by Mrs. Richardson and carried unanimously.
Mr. West moved to adjourn the meeting. Supported by Mr. Gornick.
Mr. Burke, Temporary Chairman, adjourned the meeting at 9:24 P.M.

Approved.
GERALD BURKE, Chairman

Respectfully submitted
HELEN I. RICHARDSON, Clerk

The Stroller

Let's rekindle our pride

—By W. W. EDGAR

Perhaps it was because it was Washington's birthday or the TV reminders every evening of things that happened 200 years ago that got The Stroller to think of things that could be done to help in the bicentennial celebration next year.

During the past several weeks he has been privileged to talk with folks who have been appointed to committees to arrange celebrations and they seem to be at a loss for ideas. They have adopted the "wait and see" attitude.

While the gent on TV was extolling the things that happened back in 1776 The Stroller got to thinking it be a good idea to visit the birthplace of the nation some time during the bicentennial year and enjoy a rebirth of pride in our country.

In these days when it seems everyone is taking pot shots of criticism at the government and some are even predicting that the country is going to pot, it would be a shot in the arm to walk the halls of the old buildings and sit in the same chairs our founding fathers did.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS in the country who know such places as Independence Hall and Christ Church only by name. What a thrill it should be for them to visit the places and see for themselves.

The Stroller is talking from his own experiences. Since childhood, he has had the pleasure of visiting the city of brotherly love and walk through the pages of history. And each trip was a renewed thrill.

It was the custom in our family for years to visit an elderly aunt in Philadelphia on the Fourth of July. And each year we travelled the same path.

First, we would visit Valley Forge where George Washington and the Continental Army put in a hard winter. We would proceed to Independence Hall and stand in the room in which Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, the Adams boys and John Hancock worked diligently until the constitution of the new country was written.

We even used to hang our wraps on the same pegs on the outside of the room—just as our forefathers had done. From there we'd step in the room that housed the liberty bell. We'd place our hand on the bell and pray for the country.

FROM THERE it was only a few short blocks to the home of Betsy Ross, where she made the first American flag. Later we'd go a few more blocks to Christ Church and sit in same pew where George Washington worshiped. There was something heart warming about sitting there.

One of the real thrills came when we'd visit the little town of Washington's Crossing, N.J. just outside of Philadelphia.

For years there was only a small marker telling that this was the spot from which Washington left with his troops to row across the river the night before the battle of Trenton—one of the confrontations that decided the war.

There is a large auditorium and a park ther now. The famous $1 million painting of Washington crossing the Deleware standing up in the boat is posted on the rear of the stage and every 90 minutes a tape recording of the historic event is played. It is historical drama at its best. Anyone who has the privilege of hearing it will never forget it.

One visit there would rekindle one's pride in America and wouldn't that be a fine way to help celebrate the bicentennial?

Louise Bates Ames. "Don't Push Your Preschooler." Is it necessary, is it even possible, to give your child a superior mind, teach your baby to read, increase his native intelligence? Ames and co-author Chase say NO. Are children smarter than they used to be? This book says no—the world has changed, but children haven't.

Should you trust the experts? Only if what they say proves helpful. Should you teach young children to read? Try reading to them, instead. This book will help parents understand both child behavior in general and their own child in particular. It also gives specific advice about ways to help the young child know himself.

Catherine Cookson. "The Mallen Lot." Catherine Cookson has built a phenomonal following around the world. Author of more than 30 novels, her works have been translated into eight languages. In England, where she lives, she has won critical acclaim for her vivid portraits of working-class life as well as for exciting historical fiction.

Both those who have read the first two volumes of the Mallen trilogy and those who make the acquaintance of the Mallens here for the first time will find "The Mallen Lot" a rich and engrossing saga.

James Flexner. "Washington: The Indispensable Man." Flexner's "George Washington" is widely recognized as one of the great biographies of our time. Twelve years in the writing, set down in four volumes, it received the 1973 National Book Award in Biography and a rarely given Special Pulitzer Prize Citation.

Now Flexner has distilled his magnificent life of Washington into one concise volume—"Washington: The Indispensable Man." This is in itself a major biography. Washington emerges from these pages as one of history's greatest men, who nonetheless made great mistakes; whose passions sometimes got the better of his self-control; whose achievements in war and in peace were hard-won and not always successfully sustained.

She opposed liquor by the glass

(Part II)

Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple was mayor of Plymouth from 1940 to 1942. She had been mayor pro-tem in 1936 and 1937 and became mayor only after much foot-dragging by the male members of the commission.

Mrs. Whipple told an interviewer that the only reason the position of mayor was withheld from her so long was that she was a woman. She was probably right, because the commission usually elected a mayor from its midst according to a system of rotation. Everyone got their turn except Ruth, until she either talked or shamed them into electing her in 1940.

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

Mrs. Whipple served three terms as mayor. During her tenure she fought to protect trees marked for destruction by commercial expansion. She encouraged the planting of 1,250 lilac bushes in an attempt to realize her dream of making Plymouth the "City of Lilacs." She fought vigorously against the sale of liquor by the glass.

Businessmen who owned stock in the Mayflower Hotel—"the hotel crowd," or "a certain element," as Mrs. Whipple called them—wanted Plymouth's semi-dry laws changed to permit a few bars. Since people could get a drink by driving just outside of Plymouth, they argued, why not let them spend their money in the community? Mayor Whipple, a descendent from a long line of WCTU members, was not convinced.

When the wets thought up the idea of forming a private club at the hotel, with its own liquor license, the mayor, accompanied by Mamie Conner and another WCTU member, dashed to Lansing and talked turkey to the Liquor Commission. The Mayflower Club, as it was to be called, did not get its license while Mrs. Whipple was alive.

Mrs. Whipple was also strongly opposed to gambling. On March 28, 1949, two months before the famous recall in Plymouth, the "Detroit Free Press" reported that she warned Hazel Park residents not to authorize a race track in their community. If the track came in, she said, Hazel Park streets would not be safe to walk in the dark.

On the same day, the "Detroit Times" said Mrs. Whipple had received telephone threats because of her anti-racetrack stance. She told the reporter that threats would not deter her; that she had been threatened several times during her 16-year career as Plymouth's leading woman politician.

After Mrs. Whipple became one of the few women mayors in the United States, she was the subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles. "Woman's Day" sent Margaret Case Harriman to Plymouth to interview her. Miss Harriman, a New York writer, and former editor of "Vanity Fair," wrote profiles for the "New Yorker." "Saturday Evening Post," "Good Housekeeping," and "Ladies Home Journal." She wrote a sympathetic article, entitled "Michigan's Lady Mayor," which appeared in December 1941.

Miss Harriman described Mrs. Whipple as "a tiny voluble woman with an enchanting smile, which makes her look suddenly pretty."

"The gift of fluency has always been hers," the article went on, "and she early developed a talent for talking so fast and so continually in so soft a voice that her opponent in conversation or argument is faced with the double disadvantage of having to lean forward attentively in order to hear her, and of trying to get a word in edgewise."

Miss Harriman noted that Mrs. Whipple was not in politics for money. "She receives no straight salary for her services as mayor, but a fee ranging from $3 to $5 for attending meetings of the city commission, the board of supervisors, the Michigan Municipal League, and other legislative and governing bodies of which she is a member. Her fees amount to less than $800 a year."

Mrs. Whipple retired from politics in 1950. In 1953 she experienced a series of strokes. She died Jan. 4, 1955, at the age of 59, only two weeks after she had been an honored guest of the Plymouth Historical Society, which she helped to found.

There is no doubt that Mrs. Whipple was a controversial figure in the history of Plymouth. Like Franklin Delano Roosevelt, she was either strongly liked or disliked; with most people there was no middle ground. One of her supporters says Mrs. Whipple irritated the men in the community because she was aggressive "at a time when women were not supposed to have ideas. The men would settle things over coffee and they bridled when Ruth didn't always agree."

One of her opponents said she always wanted her own way and that the recall of 1949 began because the chief of police "took his orders from Penniman Avenue instead of from City Hall."

Ruth Huston Whipple was not the first woman elected to political office in Plymouth. Mrs. Melvin A. (Phoebe) Patterson, whose home still stands on Ann Arbor Trail near the railroad tracks, was elected justice of peace in the 1920s and was the only woman to hold that office at the time.

Mrs. Whipple was not the first woman in Plymouth to champion the rights of women. Many local women, dressed in white, paraded in suffragette demonstrations before 1921 when Congress passed the 19th Amendment to the Constitution giving women the right to vote.

But Mrs. Whipple was the first woman to reach the top elective office in the city. And no one in Plymouth fought as vigorously as she for her right to be heard, and for the rights of her sex. Plymouth has had few citizens comparable to Ruth Huston Whipple.

Watchdogs nudge 4 area cities to provide housing for workers

By LYNNE JARVIS
Special Writer

A "watchdog" citizens' group gave an emphatic nudge to government officials in Westland, Livonia and Garden City last week, along with those of 23 other metropolitan municipalities.

The watchdogs remind the cities that certain requirements must be met under the 1974 Community Development Act (CDA) before federal block grant funds can be authorized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Sponsored by the Coalition for Block Grant Compliance, a newly formed group of citizens, religious and civil rights organizations, letters to each community urged compliance with that statute of the CDA dealing in the creation or restoration of housing for lower income persons (including minorities) who "work but do not live" in the municipality applying for federal funds, said Joe Guggenheim, coordinator for the coalition.

Dedicated to using "every legal means to see that the spirit and letter of the law" is fully complied with, the coalition compiled data from the U.S. Census Bureau and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) on number of minorities and low income persons working but not residing in a community.

These statistics were tabulated and sent by letter to the mayors and council members of 25 communities applying for block grant funds.

WESTLAND -- asking $5 million in block grant aid -- has a total of 8,708 members in its work force, nearly half (3,907) of whom reside outside the city limits and who earn less than $10,000, according to the 1970 census.

These non-residents are eligible for federally assisted housing under the 1974 CDA, said Guggenheim.

Census figures for the total number of Blacks working in Westland are 370, with 304 residing outside the area.

Livonia's total work force, according to the census, numbers 40,630, again with nearly half or 19,472 residing outside city boundaries and earning less than $10,000. Black workers numbered 3,162 with only six living in Livonia.

City officials in Livonia have also applied for a $5 million grant from HUD.

DUE TO A "heavy backlog" of work concerning figures for each community, statistics from the census for Garden City were not listed, said Guggenheim.

However, data enclosed in the coalition's letter to that city did include information on the numbers of minorities employed according to 1972 figures from the EEOC.

But "only sketchy figures were reported here," explained Guggenheim, "because not all employers are required to report to the EEOC."

Minority workers in occupational categories estimated to be eligible for federally assisted housing in Garden City numbered 28, with 46 in Westland and 4,353 in Livonia, according to the EEOC.

Garden City had a total number of 61 minority workers employed in 1972, while Westland reported 103 and Livonia, 5,024.

Garden City has applied for $585,000 in block grant funds.

Individual letters to each community also warned that all block grant recipients must file a Housing Assistance Plan showing efforts to provide housing for "lower income persons...either already residing in the community, or planning to reside in the community as a result of planned or existing employment facilities," according to federal regulations governing the grants.

A LOCAL HUD official told the Observer & Eccentric Friday that the number of persons suffering from inadequate housing in Garden City was 356; in Livonia, 1,602; and in Westland, 2,010.

Members of the 10 separate organizations involved in the coalition are monitoring the activities of municipalities applying for block grant funds, according to Guggenheim. They will examine completed applications and send findings to the proper local, state and federal agencies authorized to approve applications.

Guggenheim said the coalition sent letters to officials in 25 of the 70 municipalities which have applied for block grants.

The watchdog group intends to zero in on other key provisions of the law, making sure applicants comply with the requirement to "give maximum...priority to activities which will benefit low or moderate income families or aid in the prevention or elimination of slums and blight," said Guggenheim.

"Full compliance with all federal civil rights laws as well as affirmative action...to overcome the effects of prior discrimination," another tenet of the CDA, are also high on the group's list of objectives.

Madonna establishes memorial

An unrestricted memorial fund for the third president of Madonna College in Livonia has been established by the college board of trustees.

Sister Mary Raynelda, who was president of Madonna from 1960-65, had served the college in faculty positions for more than 20 years. She died Jan. 20 while serving as assistant dean of St. Mary's College, Orchard Lake — a job she assumed in 1970.

"Sister Raynelda was instrumental in the planning and construction which brought Madonna College from a wing in the Motherhouse to the attractive, contemporary buildings it now occupies," says Sister Mary Danatha, president of Madonna.

"Nothing would be more fitting than that she be memorialized here in the halls which she saw first in her mind, and finally in the reality of use."

OCC to hear Watergate key figure

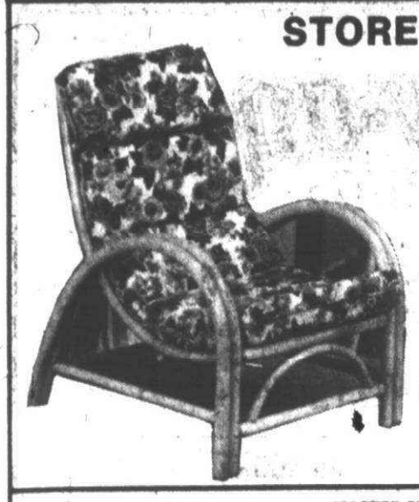

A lawyer from the Detroit area who played a major role in the Watergate story will speak at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College on Wednesday, Feb. 26.

William Merrill will speak on "Keeping the Lessons of Watergate Alive."

The presentation will begin at 9 a.m. in J-293 of the Student Commons Building on campus located in Farmington Hills at I-696 and Orchard Lake Road. The public is welcome and there is no admission charge.

Merrill served both Special Prosecutors Archibald Cox and Leon Jaworski in the investigation of the break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. At that time, Merrill was associate special prosecutor.

The saga of a lady who served America

By CORINNE ABATT

Martha and Hicks Griffiths went to see the movie, "Murder on the Orient Express" last week.

Hardly a mentionable event in the lives of most of us, but for the former U.S. congresswoman who represented Michigan's 17th District for 20 years, it was quite a treat. First time in 10 years, she estimates, that they have been free to do some of the things which are commonplace to most folks.

Since Mrs. Griffiths decided not to run again for her congressional seat, the couple have opened law offices in the large business and professional mall on Hamilton Court just west of 12 Mile and Orchard Lake in Farmington Hills. They have a permanent home in the same area and a farm in Romeo.

LIFE, HOWEVER, is far from pastoral. "I am swamped with requests to speak," she remarks.

MARTHA GRIFFITHS

Many, because of the limits of time, she has to turn down, but those which concern three topics close to heart, she feels obliged to fulfill whenever possible — welfare reform, the rights of women and a national health plan.

"If we had to chose one thing to do to reform welfare, it would be a health bill."

Mrs. Griffiths introduced a bill for a national health plan in Congress three years ago. She admits to being ahead of her time, but says support for such a plan is now growing.

Her proposal for funding the plan was that the employer deduct one per cent of the first $15,000 of an employe's yearly earnings. The employer would contribute 3½ per cent of his total payroll each year and the government would contribute a matching amount.

"This wipes out bookkeeping for doctors and hospitals. It would discourage what's happening now— building up the bills—building up the medical costs. Did you know America has more absolutely unnecessary surgery than any other nation in the world?"

HER WELFARE reform ideas center on a permanent rebatable tax credit which would include tax credits to those people who pay no taxes because they show no income.

"For instance, there would be $3,600 credit to a family of four who show no income."

This would wipe out such programs as Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and would completely eliminate food stamps.

One of the worst amendments to welfare legislation, she says, was one that limited the amount of rent residents in public housing have to pay.

"In many cases, we found out, people with $9,000 a year incomes were paying $25 a month rent including utilities."

Her rebatable credit proposal would put money into the pockets of those having no reportable income to be spent, as they saw fit, with no strings attached. It would not, as the present welfare legislation does, discourage the recipients from working. Presently, persons on ADC can only keep a third of what they earn and still remain on welfare.

THESE ARE the topics Mrs. Griffiths wants to speak about and she is being offered endless opportunities.

As to the business of building a private life after 25 years as a public figure, most certainly she is out of practice. She hopes to give it a try next June, July and August. She would like to keep the calender empty so she and her husband and large white poodle, Uki, can spend a leisurely summer at the farm.

Even if she does pull it off, there will be interruptions and occasional business trips.

She now sits on the boards of directors of a number of corporations—National Detroit Corporation (National Bank of Detroit), Burroughs Corporation, Consumers Power, and Chrysler.

She is also a member of the board of directors of the American Automobile Association and a Mercy College trustee.

She is serving on several government committees or groups "which I can't reveal the nature of."

AS SHE ONCE felt obligations to constituents, she now feels certain obligations as she accepts a board of directors seat.

She is courteous, sometimes detached as she talks about the nation, its problems and her solutions. You know she has said many of the same words before, sometimes to a room with hundreds of listeners.

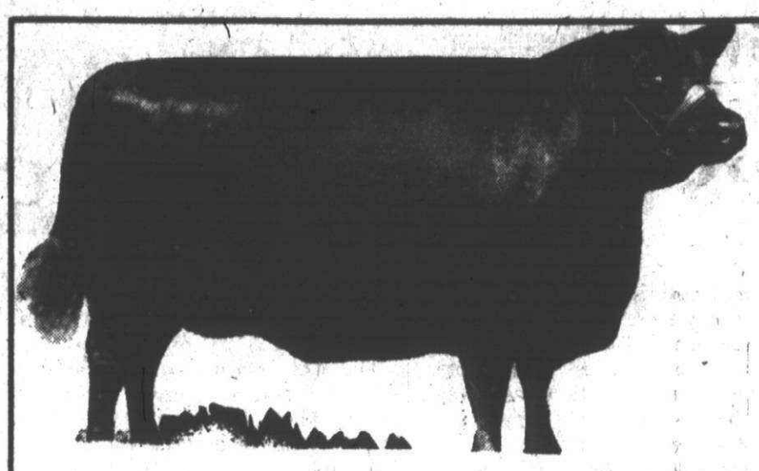

Then, she walks to the large window in her private office. She looks across the rolling lawns to the OCC Orchard Ridge campus.

"I love that view and it won't change because of the college campus being there. We didn't have windows and views like this in Washington."

She talks about "my flowers" on the farm in Romeo and her hopes for a peaceful summer.

Slowly.....but slowly, she is moving toward becoming a private person.

Hike tax or tuition?

SC faces money crunch

By DENNY COFFMAN

Results of a comprehensive financial study by the Schoolcraft College administration indicates the school can expect a "mismatch" between revenues and expenditures by 1980.

The first phase findings of the study show that expenditures will reach $13 million by the 1979-80 school year, and revenues will total $11 million.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, president of the college, told members of the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees at a study session recently, that he expects incoming funds and outgoing funds to be a "close match" for the 1975-76 school year.

The adminstration does not know at this time the exact amount of state funds available in 1975-76.

Governor William Milliken has given specific budget proposals to the Legislature but, according to Grote, the proposals would not change the college's position significantly.

"It's too early to say if the proposals are better or worse for us because we don't have comparative data available yet. But it would appear that, percentage-wise, it would give us about the same as last year."

ONE PORTION of the governor's proposals will go against Schoolcraft College, however.

The governor has recommended that a "size factor" be applied only to those schools with enrollments of less than 3,000. Previously, it had been applied to all community colleges.

"The economy of size factor will benefit only those community colleges that generate 3,000 calendar year equated students or less," said Grote.

"This is an automatic disadvantage to us because we would have gained $80,000 more in state aid."

Schoolcraft has three main sources of revenue: state aid (40 per cent); local taxes (34 per cent); and tuition and fees (23 per cent).

The college, according to Grote, has control over local taxation by its ability to propose millage increases and to raise tuition. But the college can "only influence" increases in state aid, presumably through lobbying.

The college administration has estimated 1975-76 revenue at $8.85 million and expenditures at $8.87 million.

Revenue estimates are based on anticipated state aid of $3.5 million; the governor's proposals would give the college $3.4 million, or close to what the administration expected.

Grote indicated that two of the governor's recommendations will have no effect whatsoever on Schoolcraft College.

These are an increase in the tuition deduct of $1 per credit hour and an increase in the state equalized property base per student revenue deduct ceiling to $490 per calendar year equated student.

THE COLLEGE will have several opportunities to influence community college legislation and modifications still could take place.

The trustees and administration have indicated there will be no increase in tuition this year. However, an additional millage request is still a possibility.

The Schoolcraft College district grew 46.6 per cent during the sixties and is expected to grow 18.5 per cent by 1980. Nearly half the district's population lives in Livonia, and Livonia accounts for more students than any other municipality in the district.

The study shows Livonia's population growth will be very slight in the next five years, about one per cent. Clarenceville, Northville and Plymouth school districts are expected to show the greatest growth.

Only Garden City is expected to show a population decline, though it will be slight.

State equalized valuation for the district will increase in the next five years by about 40 per cent, compared with an increase of 60 per cent in the previous five years.

Increases in the SEV of about seven per cent a year are expected, according to the study.

THE STUDY concludes that if the current economic situation persists, "we should immediately examine the direct as well as indirect effects on the financial stability of the district."

By increasing millage, the district could generate $240,000 for each one tenth of a mill in 1980.

Each dollar per credit hour change (in-district students currently pay $11 per hour) would generate $196,000 in 1980.

Enrollment currently is 8,913. By 1980 it is expected to be 10,580.

Expenditures will rise, states the study, by about 10 per cent yearly, with salaries accounting for the largest increase.

Now campus liberals wear boots of oppression

Eccentricities

by HANK HOGAN

Speakers on college campuses have always been a ripe subject for discussion.

Back during the McCarthy era the world was shocked when some college administrators allowed alleged Communists to speak on campuses, which would allow them to subvert the minds of the gullible young.

But the liberals won and those treacherous Communists did appear on campuses because there was a feeling that a true student should be exposed to all different points of view so that he could make up his mind as to what is right.

THE WORM HAS turned, and the fallout from the Watergate team now is scheduled to visit campuses to tell the real story behind corruption and the misuse of power.

In this case, the great liberals are saying that these people should not appear on campus because they are convicted criminals and college students should be protected from the like.

The difference seems to be that in this day and age there is a concern on the part of some people that these people are being paid to appear on college campuses and therefore profit from their criminology.

There wasn't any concern when Alger Hiss, also a convicted criminal, was paid for his round of lectures.

The picketing and conversation seems to miss the point—that every time a person is not permitted to speak a point of view is supressed.

In America we pride ourselves on freedom of speech and the feeling that minority views have the right to be aired even if the majority doesn't particularly agree with them.

If the minority view is always supressed, then new ideas could never be presented to the world. We all know that some very unpopular new ideas of past ages have become the majority view several years later.

If we follow the view that all reasonable views should be permitted a forum, then the price a speaker is paid is determined by the process of supply and demand.

If not enough people are willing to pay a price to listen to a man speak he is either going to have to accept a lower speaking fee or none at all if he wants the opportunity to speak to people.

Isn't it about time America becomes sophisticated enough that we are willing to let people speak, even if we don't agree with them so that when we, in turn, have something to say, we will also have the opportunity to say what is on our mind.

Little League abuses need outside prodding

R. T. Thompson writes

State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) appears to have opened a real Pandora's box with his request that the Senate and House form a committee to study the effect of Little League sports activities in Michigan.

Pursell, a father of two boys who participate in some of the Little League sports, is a former high school and college baseball and basketball coach. He knows more than a wee bit about the subject he is asking to be investigated.

He feels there have been abuses over the years—abuses that are growing with each season—and that it's about time the Legislature looked into the matter and made some recommendations.

ALTHOUGH BATTERED around by a few stories in metropolitan newspapers by writers who didn't bother checking into the background of the man asking the study, Pursell seems to be on the right track. It is about time measures are taken to correct many of the abuses of sports involving young boys.

Pursell's request to the Senate, as mentioned earlier, brought some angry replies, but generally speaking throughout the entire state there is support for his action.

For instance, in one metropolitan daily, a story appeared on the sports pages castigating the senators. At the same time, on the front page of that same daily was the report of a poll which showed folks voted 95 per cent to five per cent in favor of Pursell's views.

It seems ironic that another metropolitan daily should have a story on the front page of its sports section reporting an interview with Little Hockey League officials who said Pursell was wrong in implying some hockey leagues and teams played as many as 90 games a season more than professional clubs.

On the editorial page of that same newspaper was an editorial praising Pursell for his request for a study and an indication that such was long overdue.

WE ARE 200 PER CENT behind the Plymouth senator in this project. It is something we brought to the attention of our readers more than two years ago, pointing out that a team of 10-year-olds in Redford Township was even then involved in playing almost 100 games before a championship was decided.

We found fault with such a system then, and we find fault with it now. We can't understand how any parents would allow their youngsters to devote that much time to hockey unless for one single reason...self satisfaction and a chance to have their child realize a boyhood ambition the father never did.

We heard of teams in Livonia and Plymouth where the parents had to get their youngsters up shortly after midnight to travel as far as 150 miles to Canadian rinks where practice time was available. Not only did they have to drive, they had to pay for the rink time and had to haul the tired youngsters back home around noon for some additional sleep.

Then there was the situation in Farmington where a coach and manager carried a 30-boy squad but only used 15 in games—the same 15, we might point out, since the emphasis was on winning. The other 15 boys were sent down to the other end of the rink for practice sessions...they were needed to chip in each week to pay for the rink time.

IS THAT WHAT is known as "building better boys" and "spreading the meaning of sportsmanship and team play?" Fortunately, it was uncovered rather quickly, but a group of parents was taken for quite a while before the complaints began to pour in.

We happen to know personally of a youngster who was forced to start playing hockey at the age of seven or eight. Naturally, after a while he began to like it, although he complained to his father about not having enough time for school assignments due to practice sessions.

This youngster developed into a superior goalie and was being considered as an excellent prospect for hockey stardom. Then suddenly at the age of 13 the glamor wore off, he didn't care for practice, he cared less whether he played or not, and finally his father wisely saw he had pressed the boy too far and allowed him to give up the sport.

Thus at the age of 14 when most boys should be starting to show their most interest in playing, a player was worn out.

He had lost his competitive spirit, his desire, and turned to other things. In this case, it was to his studies, but in a good many instances the youngster becomes an athletic bum, not interested in anything, thanks to his pushy parents.

JUST A YEAR or so ago, we talked to a Plymouth resident who had volunteered his services for years to the Little League baseball program.

He liked to work with kids and received a great deal of satisfaction watching some of the boys he had coached going on to high school to become varsity players. He always followed the Little League policy, using every boy on the squad at some time during every game. He never pitched a boy more innings than the rules allowed. His main thought was participation with not that much emphasis on winning.

Then he decided to go into umpiring and discovered things had taken a change for what he thought was the worse. Managers and coaches weren't following the rules regarding use of players; too much emphasis was on winning; coaches tried to develop stars, especially their own sons; and parents were constantly screaming at the umpires, the coaches and their own youngsters.

This individual umpired for a year or two, took all the abuse from the parents and coaches, saw the abuses and disregard of the league rules and then dropped out of sight. He wanted no more of that kind of volunteer work.

THERE ARE ABUSES in the Little League programs, abuses the league officials see and allow to go without discipline. We haven't noticed as many in basketball as in baseball and hockey, but they probably exist there, too, with the taller, talented players getting the most attention.

Right at this moment, the spotlight in on Little League hockey. We know the abuses are there just as described by Pursell. All sports for children of the ages of nine to 14 should be strictly supervised, just as they are when the boys reach high school age.

There isn't any sense to 70 to 90 game seasons regardless of whether the parents can afford it or not. It's time to consider the physical well being of the boys.

More than ever now, since girls are coming into sports more and more, the day isn't far away when they'll be competing for positions on the hockey teams. We're not saying that a girl couldn't play even with a boy in a 10 or 12 game season. But 70 to 90 games? We just don't believe there is a mother in the area who would even think of allowing her 10-year-old girl to try something like that.

Then with all things even, why shouldn't the same hold for boys? They are growing, they are trying to learn, they need lots of rest, and they can't take the knocking around any better than girls.

It's time to think parents. That's what Sen. Pursell is trying to get across, but he believes in regulations to cure some of the abuses.

Sense And Nonsense

THE CHAIRMAN of the Wayne County Bicentennial Commission ought to spend part of this year taking a course in American history before directing the county's observance in 1976. In a recent press release, the chairman suggested a bicentennial parade be held on April 18, 1976, because that was the "200th" anniversary of Paul Revere's ride. Actually, Revere made his ride on April 18, 1975, which would make the suggested parade date the "201st" anniversary.

Heroes: We need them, but we mistreat them

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Sister Mary Calasantia's habit is a dark, soft brown, with a white cowl circling a motherly, lined face. But the eyes snap, and when she stands her feet are angled on the ground, one slightly ahead of the other, as though she is ready to spring to action at a moment's notice.

This direct and able Felecian nun has been for more than 20 years the driving force behind St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, overseeing plans, ramrodding construction, guiding growth of what has become one of the major medical centers in the suburbs.

Last Friday I had the honor to present her the "first citizen of Livonia" award, a recognition jointly sponsored by this newspaper and the Livonia Chamber of Commerce. The big room in Vladimir's was filled with her friends and admirers, and as she walked slowly down from the stage into the standing, applauding crowd, it was Sister Mary Calasantia the community hero.

DRIVING HOME, I got to musing about heroes, and why they are so few.

For at this strange and bitter juncture of our history, we certainly could do with a few heroes and heroines to inspire us, but we just as surely knock them apart immediately as they surface.

We are in a serious recession, and we look back longingly at President Roosevelt telling us that we have nothing to fear but fear itself; yet we read the magazines discussing President Ford's reading habits and wonder cruelly whether he played too much football without a helmet.

Michigan and its automobile industry are flat on their backs and we recall the vigor and energy of Gov. Romney calling for citizen action; yet we read the daily newspapers and see suggestions of a conflict of interest on the part of Gov. Milliken's running mate, Jim Damman, of Troy, and we speculate about bad pre-convention staff work countenanced by Milliken.

Detroit is a city fighting for its life; yet we watch the TV stories of Mayor Young's occasional scheduling foul-ups and wonder if the mayor — perhaps the only man with the raw materials to save the city — is infected with inattention to duty.

HAVE WE as a people grown so suicidal as to seek instinctively to smash down those who rise with the ability and dedication to lead us?

I think not — at least not yet.

But I do know that today we learn about our leaders from news media coverage chronicling in exquisite detail the intimate, private, personal details of their lives and characters. And I do know that very, very few men or women of flesh and blood can withstand such ceaseless probing into their private lives as the media now generate without losing, at least for some people, that sheen of admirable perfection that is one component of effective leadership.

We know all about Sen. Kennedy's wife and her psychiatric and drinking problems. We hear of Mayor Young's woman friends in the Detroit papers. We see in the national news magazines pictures of Congressman Wilbur Mills jumping on stage with Fanne Fox, the stripper. And we wonder, critically.

PART OF THE problem is that for some of us, people must be perfect (whatever that means) in their private lives in order to make it to heroism. I think this point of view is silly because it seeks to put real humans into a fantasy box; but that it exists is undeniable.

But another part of the problem is that the news media, particularly since the great triumph of investigative reporting on Watergate, have redoubled efforts to examine the personal lives of those who aspire to lead us and in so doing may have made it much more difficult for them to help us as leaders and heroes.

Certainly, the saga of Richard Nixon's flawed presidency lends force to the argument that it is right and fair for the public to learn something of the private life of our leaders in order to reach judgments about their character. But do we really need to know in detail every mental and physical defect of everyone even marginally connected with power? I think not.

AT THIS newspaper, we know that the wife of a certain city councilman is an alcoholic, but as long as her illness gives no sign of affecting his public performance we will not print the story. If this newspaper were to learn that the son of a local official were a homosexual, we would not print the story unless we found solid evidence that the official's duties were affected (say, by blackmail).

This is not to say that the news media should lay off our public officials. In fact, the public has in my view the right to know everything — everything — about the public's business. Period.

But the public does not have the right to know everything about the consequentless gossipy details of the personal and family life of public figures. They, too, need privacy, perhaps more than the rest of us.

And that's why when we learned that Sister Mary Calasantia was to be honored as the first citizen of Livonia we made no particular effort to probe into intimate details of her personality. She is a hero to her community because of what she has done for it. That, for any person who strives to help, is more often than not quite enough.

2 good kids praised

Editor:

Whenever a teenager does something bad, it is front page news. How about when they do something nice and kind?

We are seniors (70 and 80), and the last three snowstorms when we got up in the morning, our 100-and-some feet driveway, sidewalks and porches were cleaned!

Well, last night my husband looked out about 9 o'clock and saw two boys shoveling our front walk. He recognized one, asked them in and offered to pay them. They said we owe them nothing, and they didn't have time to come in as they had other places to go.

Red Cross gives thanks

Editor:

Last last year, a unique combination of circumstances prompted concern over the possibility of an area-wide blood shortage.

Due to automotive layoffs, 27 industrial blood drives were cancelled during the months of December 1974 and January 1975. In addition, many groups were reluctant to hold blood drives between Dec. 23 and Jan. 3, and potential automotive donor groups were not scheduled to work the week between Christmas and New Year.

Turning to Observer & Eccentric readers, among others, Red Cross received the volunteer support it depends upon. In the month of December 1974, blood collections amounted to 14,338 pints and in January totaled 15,586 pints. These totals resrepresent the highest ever for the months of December and January in the history of Red Cross' blood program in southeastern Michigan.

Instead of a blood shortage, hospitals were provided a continuous supply of blood and blood components at a time when volunteer blood donations were feared to drop to a dangerous low.

For this reason, Red Cross gratefully acknowledges your newspapers' continued support of Red Cross and the many readers who responded so quickly and generously.

Executive Director, Red Cross

GC West smashes Glenn

By JIM BRADLEY

Many times when a sports event looks like it will be something extra-special, it turns out to be a dud.

Such was the case Tuesday when two factors helped Garden City West's Tigers blow by Westland John Glenn, 78-67, as both teams warmed up for Monday night's state district basketball tournament at Livonia Churchill High.

First, West bombed Glenn with a 22-3 scoring burst in a five-minute span in the second quarter to go from a 16-10 deficit to a 32-19 lead and widened it to 19 points, (47-28) before settling for its 11-point victory.

Second, Glenn's high scoring John Jesson was saddled with three quick fouls and had to sit out much of the game, taking the Rockets' point production away.

But West's choking defense hung a noose around the middle of Glenn's offense in the second period and that was the story. The visiting Rockets, who dropped their third straight in a 15-4 record, used balanced scoring to take a 14-10 first quarter lead.

They scored the first bucket in the second stanza, but West got its fast-break working off the defensive boards and outscored Glenn, 22-3, from 7:20 of the second period to 2:42.

Junior guard David Niles, who topped scorers with 25 points, led the charge with four baskets. Randy Shelley had eight of his 12 points in the second period and Ken Chavis came off the bench and canned three baskets on the fast break.

The string that broke Glenn's back went like this. Trailing 16-10, West's Shelley hit a free throw, followed by baskets by Chavis, Mike Susko, Niles and Shelley to give West a 21-16 lead.

Glenn's top gunner, Harry Polovino, with 20 points, hit a free throw and a long basket sandwiched between three Niles' baskets, a pair by Shelley, and one by Chavis to put West on top, 32-19.

West led at the half, 36-23, built it to 47-28 at the 5:20 mark of the third period before settling for a 59-45 lead at the buzzer. Glenn, never giving up, battled back and narrowed the gap to nine points with 55 seconds left.

Sporting five players in double figures, West ran it's season record to 16-3 while Glenn's third consecutive loss gave it a 15-4 mark. Niles' 25 was his season's high, followed by Susko's 18, Shelley's 12, Gary Hutnik's 11 and Chavis' 10.

Three Rocket performers scored well as Harry Polovino led with 20, center Terry Johnson canned 16, eight in the last period, and George Roberts added 10.

Chris Babler's Tigers face Southgate Friday night and hope to clinch at least a tie for the Tri-River League championship with a win. Glenn can also wrap up a share of its league's crown by beating Thurston at home in a Northwest Suburban League game.

Then, "March Madness" sets in Monday when Glenn and Garden City East are matched in the 7 p.m. opening game of the district basketball tournament at Churchill.

Garden City West and host Churchill hook up in the second game of the doubleheader.

The winner of the East-Glenn game Monday plays Detroit Chadsey at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 26, while the G.C. West-Churchill victory plays Inkster Cherry Hill at 8:45 p.m. on Wed., Feb. 26. The two Wednesday winners tangle Friday, Feb. 28 at 7 p.m. for the district trophy and the winner goes on to the regionals.

Salem rips Dearborn, 52-37

For the big blue machine of Plymouth Salem, the opportunity to wrap up a second straight undisputed Suburban Eight basketball crown has come down to the last home game of the season—and that one will be against upset-minded Redford Union Friday night.

The stage was set for that home court climax when the Rocks whipped Dearborn on the latter's court Tuesday, 52-37, offsetting the Pioneers' slowdown tactics with a sudden scoring surge late in the second quarter that provided an invincible halftime lead.

ERIC AGARDY, Plymouth's husky 6-10 senior center, was in his usual role as scoring leader with 24 points—the 11th time this season he has topped the 20 mark—and also helped the Rocks dominate the boards with his 14 rebounds.

Main figures in the Rocks' supporting cast were 6-7 Bill DenHouter, who was superb with nine rebounds, and 5-11 junior guard Brian Wolcott who was No. 2 man in the scoring column with 10 points.

Overall the Rocks now are 16-2 and in the Sub 8 they lead by one game with only one to go. Their league mark is 11-2 to second place Belleville's 10-3, with the latter an odds-on favorite to close out as a winner at home Friday against Trenton.

Trailing those leaders in the standings are Dearborn 8-5, Livonia Bentley 7-6, Trenton and Edsel Fod both 5-8, Redford Union 4-9 and Allen Park 2-11. Other final round games Friday will find Dearborn at Bentley and Allen Park at Edsel Ford.

At Dearborn, the slow-paced deliberate pattern of the Pioneers kept scoring at a minimum in the early going. Plymouth led 7-6 after the first quarter and by a three-point margin at 15-12 with only three minutes left in the half. Then came the barrage.

IN THOSE REMAINING minutes Agardy clicked for six points. DenHouter and John Maloney added baskets and both Jim Ellinghausen and Dan Moore dropped in free throws. In that span Plymouth ran to a quick 12-3 advantage which put the Rocks in front at the half, 27-15.

Bentley dumps RU, 60-43

The Bentley Bulldogs made no mistake of it the second time around.

Bentley fell to Redford Union in the Suburban Eight cage first round, 62-58, in overtime.

This time, Larry Jackson's Bulldog crew outscored RU, 37-17 in the second half for a 60-43 victory. It was Bentley's 10th win against nine defeats and for Carl Andrews' Panther team, loss No. 11 in 19 outings.

After Bentley had taken a 14-7 first quarter lead, RU romped in the second eight minutes to capture a 26-23 margin at the half. That's about when Jackson's halftime talk started to develop and the Bulldogs went on the prowl for a Panther.

Bentley, which was paced by Don Kegley's 20 points, hit 22 of 43 from the field for 51 per cent while RU was held to 13 field goals total.

East cagers tune up for loop title clash

Garden City East has been "hot and cold" this year and hopes to come up with a good effort when it hosts Oak Park Friday night in its Northwest Suburban League finale.

A victory over the Redskins can clinch at least a share of the NSL title and if John Glenn should lose to Thurston, the Panthers would rule alone in place of Franklin, last year's champ.

After playing its best game of the year against Glenn, Garden City East ran into a fired-up Bishop Borgess squad and had to struggle to pull out a 66-54 win.

"Bishop Borgess played a really fine game and we had to go to finally pull through with a win," Billy Joe Young said after his Panthers had extracted their 11th win against seven losses.

Foul trouble to East's two top scorers, Greg Emery and Jim Riley, hampered the Panthers' point production but Young gave full credit to the Spartans.

"They never gave up and played inspired ball. Yes, I was really worried when they closed to within two points at the end of the third quarter," Young added.

But the Panthers, who had taken a 17-8 first quarter lead and 31-21 halftime margin, were outscored by the hosts, 17-9, in the third stanza as Borgess narrowed the gap to a mere basket.

Emery, who had 17 points to tie for game honors with Borgess' guard Dan Clark, and Jim Riley played the entire fourth period with four fouls. Riley fouled out, but Wally Kroll fired in 14 points in his finest scoring effort of the year to save it for the East squad. Guard Mike Mitchell rounded out East's double figure scorers with 10 points while Spartan Dave Priebe was the only other Borgess player in twin figures with 11.

The Panthers outscored Borgess, 26-16, in the final period and hit 20 of 34 shots for a percentage of 59 per cent. Borgess gunned more than twice that number, hitting 24 times in 76 attempts for 32 per cent.

East out-rebounded Borgess, 29-26, but had 18 floor mistakes to only nine Borgess turnovers. Emery led in rebounds with 10 for East.

G.C. EAST (66) - Krol, 5, 4-6, 14; Tomaszewski, 2, 2-3, 6; Emery, 6, 5-6, 17; Riley, 4, 5-6, 13; Mitchell, 1, 8-10, 10; M. Loacano, 1-, 0-2, 2; D. Loacano, 1, 2-2, 4; Totals: 20, 26-35, 66.

Franklin topples Harrison for 4th victory, 56-52

Farmington Harrison's basketball team has been on the skids lately, and last Thursday's game at Livonia Franklin didn't improve the situation.

Franklin defeated Harrison, 56-52, in the nonleague game. The victory was Franklin's fourth against 10 losses. The loss dropped Harrison to 7-10.

The Patriots led, 27-23, at halftime, but Harrison rebounded in the second half. The Hawks led by seven early in the fourth quarter before Franklin's man-to-man press started to take its toll in turnovers.

"We've been playing terrible of late," said Harrison coach Bob Sutter. "We've lost our last four games, and we just haven't had it together at all."

Dennis Wesley, Franklin's 6-5 center, fired in 19 points oon seven field goals and five of six foul shots. Guard Jim Ronssean added 11 points, while Don Pederson and Sam Williams each scored eight.

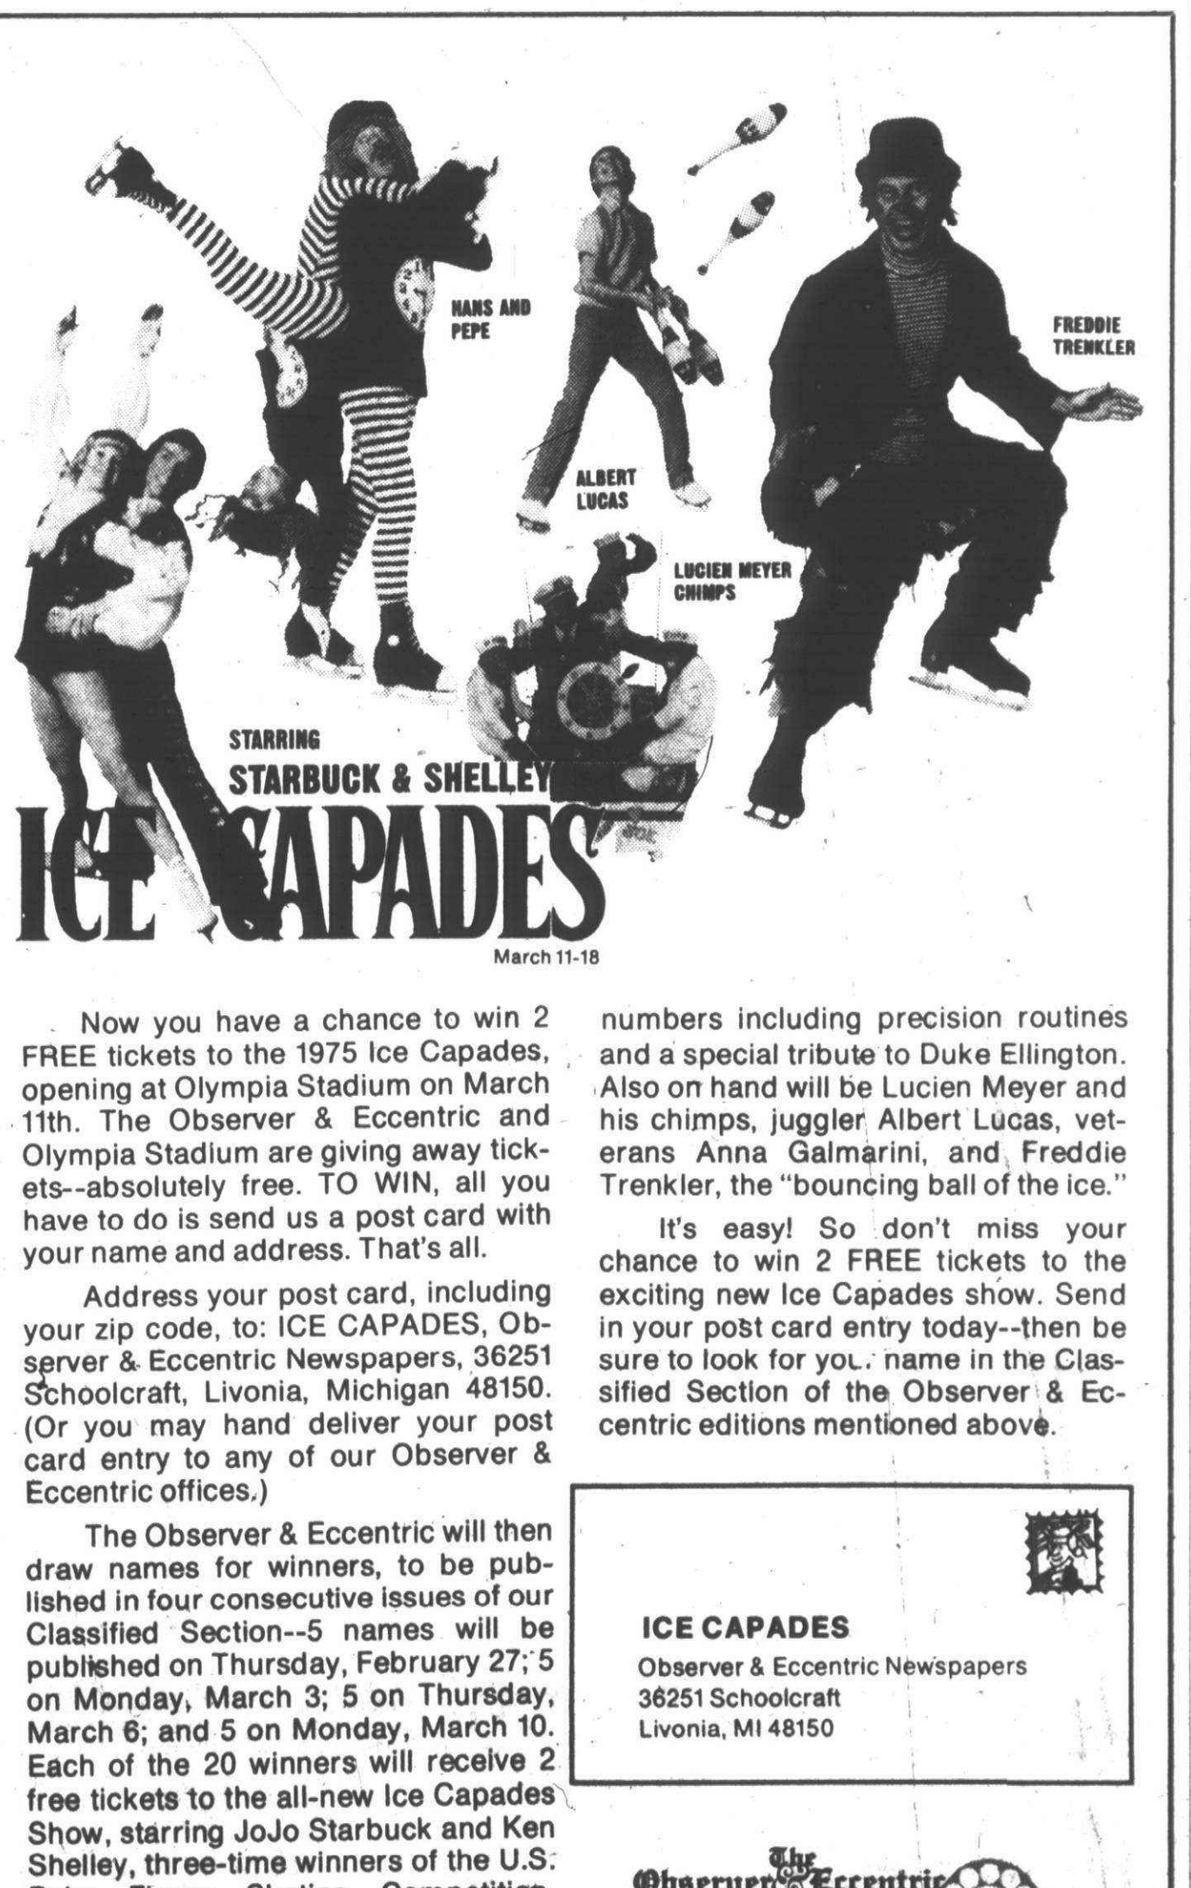

Harrison's Jeff Otto scored 15 points on five field goals and five of five foul shots. Paul Wick and Bob Mason scored 11 and 10 points respectively.

Harrison shot 42 per cent from the field (17-40), while Franklin shot 37 per cent (21-56). Harrison outrebounded Franklin, 33-27, with Mason grabbing 11.

St. Agatha drops 16th, 69-57

For 3½ quarters, St. Agatha had a ball game.

That "had" quickly changed to a 12 point defeat when the Aggies were outscored, 22-5, in the final four minutes to wind up on the short end of a 69-57 score against Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes.

"It was really depressing," commented Aggies Coach Jim George whose team now stands at 3-16 with just Marine City Holy Cross left on the regular season slate.

"We gave it away in the final minutes. "Our kids just couldn't handle Waterford's full court press and we played lousy," added George.

St. Agatha got off to a 12-6 first quarter lead, remained on top at the half, 25-22, and 44-40 after three quarters. And with four minutes left on the clock, it was still St. Agatha, 52-47.

But five points in the last four minutes told it all.

Both clubs wound up 56 per cent from the floor. St. Agatha hit on 25 of 44 and Waterford, 28 of 50. After playing host to Marine City Holy Cross tomorrow night (Friday), the Aggies kick off state district play.

St. Agatha is in the St. Andrew district and meets St. Francis Cabrini Monday (Feb. 24), at 7:30 p.m. Box score:

10th setback for Chiefs

Lathrup mauls Canton, 80-56

The Lathrup fans cheered wildly whenever Kenny Wenzel or Rob Wiencek or Steve Harwood scored for the Chargers.

Those three players aren't front liners. They haven't seen much action this season. But just about everyone was playing last Tuesday as Lathrup demolished nonleague Plymouth Canton, 80-56, in the Chargers' final home game of the regular season.

Lathrup coach Jim Kourtakis started a lineup which didn't include such notables as Tom O'Rourke or John Harding. Instead, seniors Wenzel and Wiencek, etc. faced the Canton five. Lathrup led by a point, 18-17, after one quarter. And then the regulars started drifting into the lineup, and the result was devastation for Canton.

Lathrup outscored Canton, 20-12, in the second quarter to put it away for good. O'Rourke, the hero in Lathrup's victory over Dondero last Friday, scored 12 points in the second quarter against Canton. O'Rourke finished with 12 points to lead all scorers. Tom Hart and Mark Johnston added 11 and nine points respectively. Wenzel and Wiencek each scored four points, and Harwood had one.

Dave Edwards, a 6-2 forward, led Canton with 11 points. Don Lloyd, the Cheifs' 6-3 center, added 10 points. Canton coach Casey Cavell also used lots of players – 11 Chiefs made the scoring column.

Lathrup shot 46 percent from the floor (31-67). Canton shot 31 percent (21-66). Lathrup made 18 of 25 free throws. Canton had its problems at the line, sinking just 14 of 30.

Lathrup also led the rebounding battle, 48-45. O'Rourke grabbed 12 rebounds, while Harding and Hart each had 11.

The victory lifted Lathrup to 10-9 this season. The Chargers have won seven of their last eight games. Canton fell to 9-10 overall.

In The Pocket.

By W.W. EDGAR

The big question along the bowling front at the moment concerns the prospects of the Detroit area bowlers repeating their performance of a year ago in the American Bowling Congress tournament that opened Monday night in Dayton, O.

Last year Detroiters walked off with more honors than any other group when the Goebel team won the all-events, Bob Hart won the individual all events and Ray Williams, of the Coon Bros. team, rolled the first 300 ever recorded in the team event.

The Goebel team has been changed since that time and Hart now bowls with the strong Stroh team that is scheduled in the Classic division on April 23. The re-aligned Goebel team is scheduled on March 15.

Aside from these two strong combinations, the Detroit area will have another strong contender in the K&S team that bowls on April 21. This team includes two former Stroh bowlers -- Dale Seavoy and Mike Samaradja.

THE MOTOWN TEAM of the Ladies Major League that comprises many combinations from the western suburbs shot its way to a place on the national honor roll last Wednesday night when it registered a 1133 single game count at Price Free Bowl.

This is the highest single rolled in the nation this season according to the latest figures from the Women's International Bowling Congress.

The big count was made possible when Lovella Brown posted a 290 to tie with Cora Fiebig for high single game honors for the season.

Meanwhile Cora came through with a 650 game to boost her average to 192.45 to give her a big lead in the race for top average honors this year.

THE IMPORTANCE of bearing down on every shot was proved again this week at Livonia Lanes when one poor roll of the ball cost Virginia Burns a chance at a 700 series.

Bowling in the Ladies House League where she carries an average of 170 she drew a 10 pin tap in the final frame of her first game, then missed it, and had to settle for a 237 count. She came back with games of 234 and 210 for a 681 series but the poor shot at the 10 pin prevented her from breaking the coveted 700 barrier. She had to be content whth rolling the highest series in the laegue this year.

THE DETROIT WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION is preparing for its golden anniversary tournament that opens March 15 at Satellite Bowl in Dearborn Heights and President Agnes Ekstrom is looking forward to a record entry.

Each year this is the largest city association event in the country and with the signifigance of the golden anniversary special efforts are being made to attract every league in the area.

AL GIROLAMO and Fred Mc Clain staged a great battle for top honors in the Wonderland Classic before Al won the pacemaking role with a 729 series. At this figure he won with a margin of only 11 pins.

WESTLAND BOWL is one of the nine establishments selected for the preliminary qualifying rounds of the rich Midas Open that is scheduled at Windsor Locks, Conn. during the week of March 1.

DELORES DOWHAN made her 37 pin handicap pay dividends in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the final of three games, with a count of 185-37--222 and then captured the series with a score of 504-111--615.

In the other games Janice Gale took the opener with 197-30--227 and Ellie Wilkins with 193-21--214 tied Loretta Moersch who posted a 184-30--214.

CLOSE BATTLES seem to be the the pressure to beat Lee Snow for top honors in the Classic with a 654 series that gave him a mere one pin edge.

To gain the honor he linked games of 202, 229 and 223, while Snow profited by a middle game of 245 and a finish of 236 for his 653. In the single game competition Ray Kreuter won with a 279 in a 634 series.

SYLVIA La ROCHE seems to be in a rut-- but she's not complaining. For the second week in a row she bettered double century figures in the Wall Flower League at Plaza Bowl.

A week ago she posted a 625 on games of 201, 225 and 199 for 625. She came right back this week with a 610 that included games of 225,159, and 226.

On the men's side, Jack St. Germain rolled the high single of the week with a 265 in the Mixed League and Phil Ratheun paced the Livonia schoolmen with a 257.

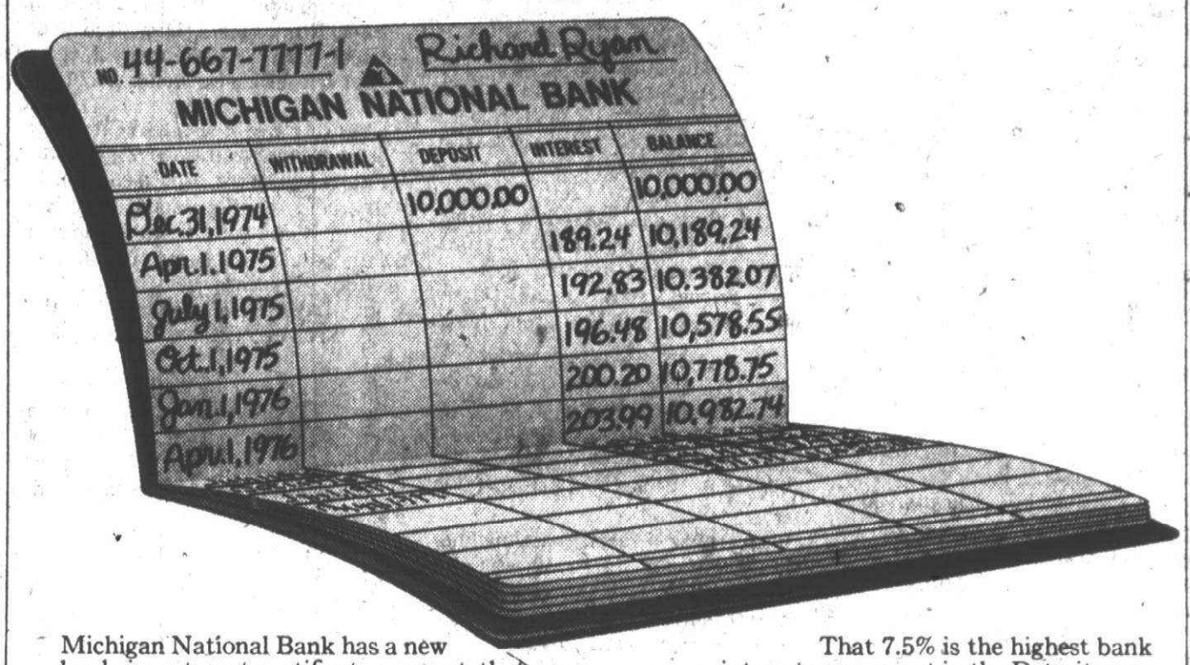

West tips Glenn, 30-24 on Tucker's 3:07 pin

With one weight class bout remaining, John Glenn and Garden City West found themselves in a 24-24 deadlock.

Heavyweight Jim Tucker gave West the 30-24 victory with a pin over Glenn's Craig Squires in 3:07 to break the tie. It was West's seventh win against four setbacks. Results:

101 pounds - DON LUTZ (GC) defeated MIKE ECKER (JG), 6-3.
108 pounds - ROBERT OLWEEAN (JG) defeated STEVE GRAHAM (GC), 7-0.

122 pounds - DAVE CICOTTE (JG) defeated GARY JONIKA (GC), 8-1.
129 pounds - BILL SICYK (JG) defeated KEN MILLER (GC), 5-4.

Job no gamble for Philly banker

BY W.W. EDGAR

"I don't consider it a gamble. I like to look upon it as a challenge."

With this simple statement, Ralph M. Henry, newly appointed president of Bricklin Canada Ltd. and its parent concern General Vehicle Co. of Livonia, explained why he took the unusual step from being the senior vice-president of the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. in Philadelphia, to president of a new car company.

Seated in his office on Plymouth Road in Livonia, he admitted that in the minds of many his move would be a gamble— moving from a prestigious position, where he was assured of security, to the automotive industry.

"IT JUST so happens that I handled much of the business for Bricklin Co. in our banking offices in Philadelphia and became familiar with the operation of the company.

RALPH M. HENRY

"From this position I learned it was a sound organization, and I also got to know the persons with whom we were doing business.

"With that knowledge it wasn't a gamble for me to leave the bank and move into the excitement of marketing a new car — especially when we have back orders to keep us busy for the next two years."

WHILE HE didn't say so, his enthusiasm makes it clear Henry was eager for more action than one would find in the cloistered offices of a banking concern in Philadelphia.

He revealed that when Malcolm Bricklin, company chairman, offered him the presidency he gladly accepted.

While Henry will make his headquarters in Livonia, the new sports car will continue to be built in St. Johns, N.B., Canada, and tested in Arizona.

Asked why the company had settled in Livonia, Henry says it wanted to be close to the automotive market.

"I understand the company had been located in two other locations in Detroit before settling on Livonia. I guess this area out here, with its aggressive spirit and open spaces, seemed more attractive."

THE BRICKLIN is the latest safety car to enter the automotive field.

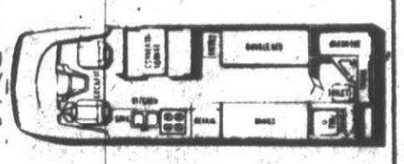

Constructed of fiber glass and acrylic, it is a two-seat sports model that stands apart becasue its doors don't open conventionally. Instead they raise vertically, either manually or automatically.

"And with the body being made of fiber glass and acrylic, th car never needs painting and is rust free. To add to the safety," Henry explains, "our bumpers can withstand shock at 10 miles per hour instead of the five miles per hour on American cars."

THE CAR is sticker priced at $9,980 which includes air conditioning, automatic shift and windows, and the gamut of modern accessories.

Explaining that a switch has been made from an American Motors engine to the Ford V-8 because the Ford engine doesn't require the catalytic converter, Henry says the main competition will come from the American-made Corvette.

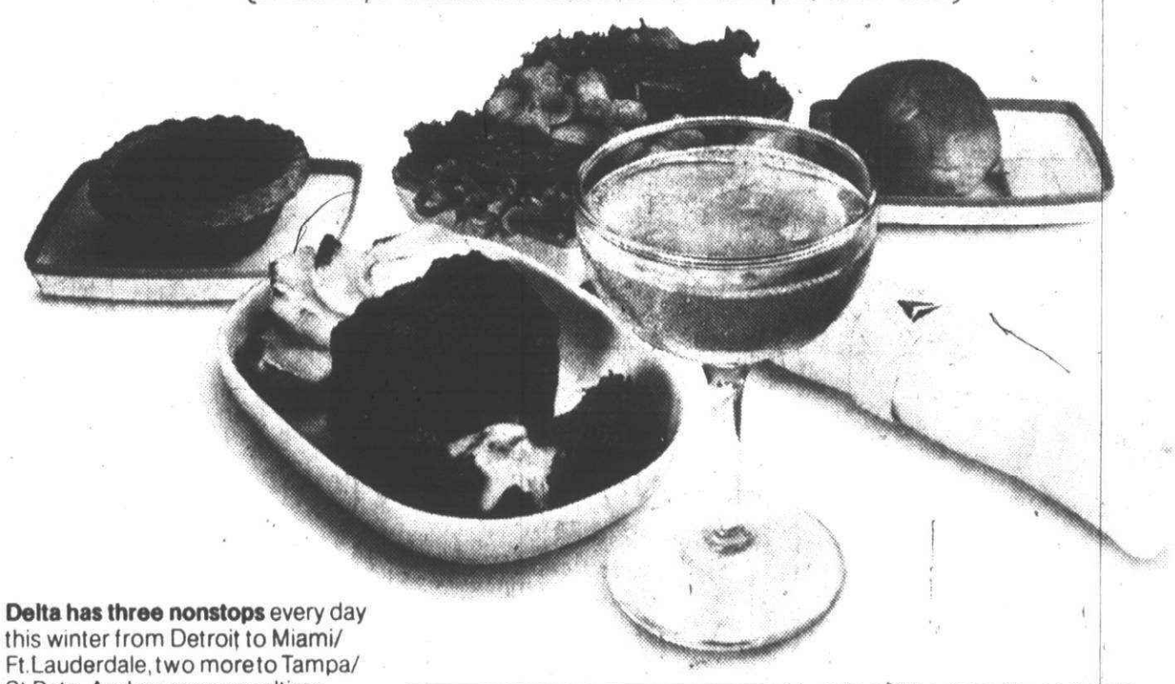

There are several dealers in the East, mainly in New England, and he now is lining up dealers in the Midwest. Henry confided there will be many 1975 Bricklins on area road this year.

Turf Tips, Quips

By DOC MINARD

The circuit court battle between Northville Downs and Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley over summer racing dates is dragging on and on and at the same time the winter meeting at the 'Downs is moving well past the halfway point.

Certainly Executive Manager John Carlo can't complain about the success of this year's meeting which is running well ahead of last year in attendance and wagering.

But the fact remains that no winter meeting in the metropolitan Detroit area has been as successful as during the summer and figures for racing in January, February and March don't compare with those for June, July and August.

That's what is bugging Carlo. The commissioner, in alloting dates for this year took away all summer programs from Northville Downs and gave back-to-back dates to Hazel Park and Wolverine Raceway.

Northville has had summer dates since it opened back in 1944 and the commissioner riled Carlo when he cut Northville out this year and alloted nothing but winter dates starting in January.

FROM ALL APPEARANCES it seems the case before Judge Thomas Foley will drag on and on with no hope at all of Northville Downs getting any summer dates this year. There didn't appear to be much chance of that happening from the very start.

Should Judge Foley rule the commissioner has been capricious in awarding dates and that Northville should have had some summer racing, then Wolverine Raceway and Hazel Park Raceway, which have joined with the racing commissioner in fighting the suit, are certain to file appeals.

In that event it would probably be next October before the case came up again and by that time the racing commissionerwould be allocating dates for 1976.

Incidentally, it appears that Shirley is in hot water in more ways than one. From Lansing comes word that a movement is underway to have him removed and a new commissioner named within the next two or three weeks.

All of which raises a few eyebrows since there also is a rumor that Shirley is in line for election to the presidency of the National Association of Racing Commissioners.

AND AT THE SAME TIME there are bills in the legislature for a three man racing commission, replacing the present one czar type leadership.

The three man commission has the support of practically all of the track managements and the groups representing the horsemen. It provides for a commissioner with a thorough knowledge of the thoroughbreds, one with a thorough understanding of the standardbreds and a third with a knowledge of both sports but also the ability to serve as a sort of Solomon.

It would appear Michigan racing has a need for a three-man board. It might eliminate many of the suits caused by a single individual having all of the power under thepresent racing act.

It should be interesting to see what comes out of the legislature. Somewhere in the huge pile of bills are a couple giving the tracks additional shares of the mutuel handle for operating and purses.

There is one for additional money for purses only. And one can only conjecture as to which will make it out on the floor for discussion.

AT THE DETROIT RACE COURSE negotiations are going on almost daily between track management and union teams toward a new contract for the mutuel clerks union.

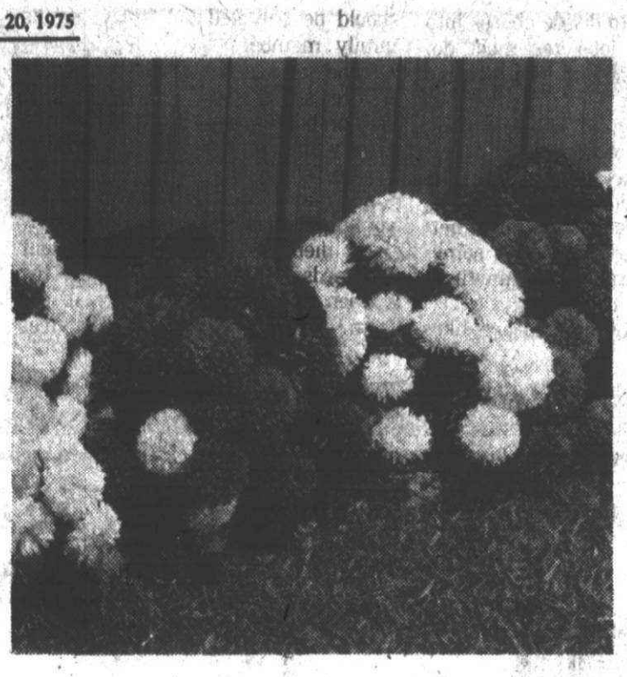

Latest information from those close to the picture is that little has taken place. The two teams are just about as far apart now as they were when the talks first started.

However, a labor mediator has entered the discussions and who knows, what has seemed impossible today may wind up with some sort of an agreement tomorrow.

The thoroughbred season was supposed to have opened Friday but that was delyed indefinitely by a brief announcement by track managament that negotiations were at an impasse.

Whether the union will continue to allow things to rest at that point remains to be seen. There are members to think about who are anxious to get back to work as quickly as possible.

There should be some kind of positive action within the next few days. We would like to make a guess that the opener won't be delayed more than a week. Now we'll wait and see.

Location becomes important

By MICHAEL D. SAMONEK
Executive Vice President
United Northwestern
Realty Association

Higher energy costs and the threat of further price rises are making housing clients even more selective, according to real estate firms.

In the past, location has generally been the most important factor in househunting with proximity to schools the major consideration, particularly by young families.

With relatively low gasoline prices and more two and three car families, nearness to shopping, churches and public transportation carried less weight. The availability of close-by recreation facilities also has been of less importance in recent years with most persons hoping to end up within a short ride to a freeway which could speed their flight to fun in any direction.

Even closeness to work has diminished in importance with more concern given to the quality and appearance of the neighborhood and the prestige of the address.

"NOW WE are beginning to see some signs of a reversal in these trends," real estate persons report. "People are starting to give added thought to how they can cope with short supplies of gasoline or budget-breaking gas prices."

How long it would take to get to and from work by bus suddenly became important again along with how many co-workers and potential car pool members live in the area.

"I think there also is more interest in the friendliness of the neighbors," says one veteran saleswoman. "The joint shopping trips made last year when gas was in short supply has helped many of us realize how important this can be."

Energy questions also are making many buyers assess their need for large homes more closely. Problems and higher costs of heating and cooling extra rooms that are seldom used are helping many buyers decide on smaller and more efficient dwelling units.

INCREASINGLY HEARD by salespersons is the question of type and quantity of insulation and costs of adding new insulation in existing homes.

Many salespersons feel that energy supplies and costs are just beginning to indicate their effects in the housing market. It may take a number of years to develop, they point out, but by the end of this decade we'll find that our lifestyles have been greatly changed.

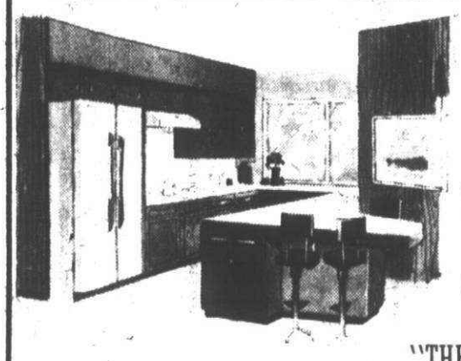

"Even now, many people are only half-joking when they say their utility bills are higher than their house payments," said one area broker.

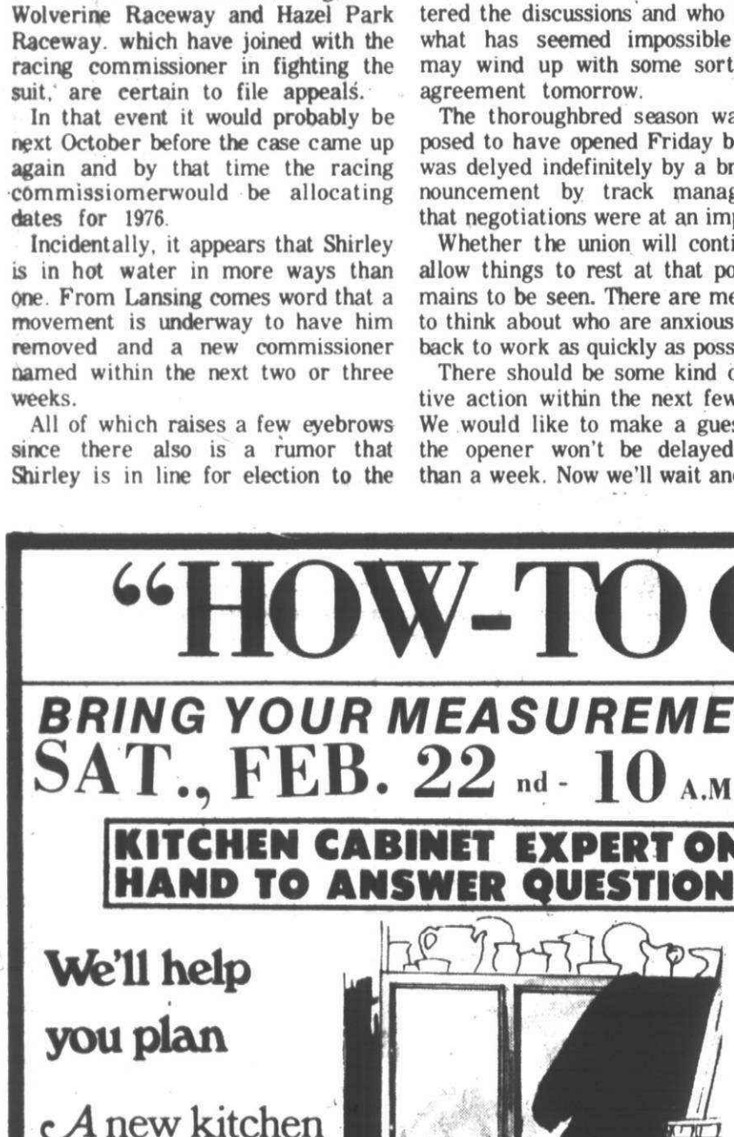

"These rising costs are also putting increased pressure on units attempting to hold rental costs to reasonable limits."

"New homes of the future, whether owned or rented, are bound to be more utilitarian with energy conservation and costs of operation increasingly important sales points."

Housework too much for you?

Is housework running your life? Then maybe the job is bigger than it ought to be.

Anne Field, extension family resource management specialist at Michigan State University, suggests you stop a minute, sit down and take a good, hard look at housework. Be especially suspicious of the way you've always done things, she advises, and look for ways to cut out or cut down the chores you have to do.

One way to approach the problem, Dr. Field says, is to divide chores into three categories: jobs you must do, jobs you ought to do and jobs that can be let go.

Divide the "have-to" chores among family members according to their likes and dislikes as much as possible.

"Someone who doesn't hate washing windows will probably do a much better job washing windows than someone who would rather do anything else," Dr. Field comments.

"HAVE-TO" jobs that no one likes should be parceled out fairly among family members.

Some chores—ironing sheets and children's playclothes, for instance—can probably be eliminated without greatly affecting your family's quality of life, she points out.

You may reduce the amount of time you must spend on other chores by doing them less often, lowering your standards a bit—after all, must the kitchen floor be clean enough to eat from?—or using labor-saving devices and strategies to cut down the work load.

Laundry can be less time-consuming, for example, if you buy clothes and linens that need little or no ironing and have no special washing or drying requirements. "Hand wash only," "hang to dry" and "dry clean only" tags on a garment mean extra care, and that means extra time.

THE AIM of saving time from housework is, of course, to have time for something else.

"Think of your time as a fresh apple pie," Dr. Field suggests. "Even before you cut it, your job, home, family and other commitments account for a lot of the pieces. It isn't selfish to save a piece for yourself."

Theater offers 'All My Sons'

The Plymouth Theater Guild will present "All My Sons," a Pulitzer prize-winning play by Arthur Miller, March 6, 7 and 8 at 8 p.m. in Plymouth Central School Auditorium on Main Street.

Set in post World War II suburban America, the play illustrates varying conflicts within the lives of the Keller family.

Larry, the oldest son, was missing in action and presumed dead, but the mother with unyielding tenacity, refuses to accept this verdict.

Secondly the father's manaufacturing company produced several hundred defective airplane parts for the Army, resulting in the deaths of 21 men. His partner is serving a prison sentance for negligence, but the spectre of suspicion hangs over Joe as well

The catalyst in this situation comes in the form of Anne, the daughter of the jailed partner and former girl friend of the "dead" brother. Her appearance, and the affection shown her by the younger brother, Chris, recalls the case of the airplane defects and revives the mother's personal anguish.

Andy Hruska and Irene Troth, both of Plymouth, star as the father and mother, with Ray Douglas of Plymouth as Chris. Carol McNulty of Livonia is Anne.

Also featured are Pat Troth and Dennis Whalen of Plymouth, Ed Monaghan of Novi, and Pat Bray, Jef Lee, and Larry Cook of Northville. Tom Hinks of Plymouth and Rebecca Johnson of Belleville are the directors.

SC students prepare Wilder's 'Our Town'

Production is under way at Schoolcraft College for Thorton Wilder's hit play of the 1930s, "Our Town."

Six performances are scheduled for the middle of March.

The cast includes 10-year-old Todd Truxell of Livonia as Wally Webb. Livonia students featured in the play are J. Gregg Vorbeck, Daniel Williams, Randy Anderson, Barbara Cassani, Cathis Gee, Kerry Reel, Sue Mikkelsen, Michael Fitzpatrick, Maria Oknaian and Dennis Martino.

Others in the cast include David Anderson of Plymouth, Robbie Clarke of Northville and Doris Heipel of Westland.

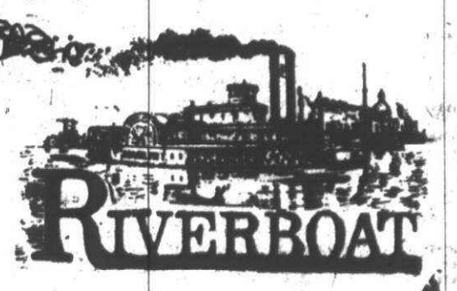

"Our Town" is a drama about life. "Its story centers around the activities of any town, of its human beings, from birth to death. It also has audience appeal because of its unconventionality of presentation and its direct simplicity, sincerity, and understanding," says Dr. Lawrence Rudick, director of the play. Rudick is an instructor in speech and drama at Schoolcraft.

"Our Town" will be presented March 14, 15, 21, and 23 at 8 p.m. and March 16 and 23 at 7 p.m. in the Liberal Arts Theater, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia. General admission is $2. Schoolcraft student and senior adult student tickets are $1. Students must show their identification cards. Tickets are available in the campus bookstore and at the door. Group rates for 10 or more persons also are available.

Choral open to area singers

Membership in the University of Michigan-Dearborn's Choral Ensemble is open to members of the campus and community. Dr. Phillip Peter, UM-D assistant professor of music history and coordinator of ensembles, says those interested in joining the group may come to rehearsal the next few weeks.

Hilberry performance of 'Medea' is weak

By MARILYN FITCHETT

In contrast to a heavyweight Hilberry Theater lineup marked by exceptionally strong male performances, "Medea," with its female lead, turns out to be a flyweight.

There is simply no contest when comparing Harper Jane McAdoo's Medea with the likes of James Kisicki's Tartuffe or Al Hamacher's Lennie in "Of Mice and Men."

As the part-gypsy, part-sorcerer, part-loving wife and part-murderess, McAdoo finds the ranges of Medea's emotions too difficult to handle. Her rage and passion are identical, leading the audience to write her off simply as demented. We can have no understanding of a character in which we can see no change.

The drama depicts an alien woman brought to Corinth by her Greek husband. Tiring of her foreign ways, Jason deserts Medea and weds the young daughter of King Creon in his search for position in Greek society.

Fearing Medea's talents as a sorcerer, Creon banishes Medea and her two sons, setting the stage for Medea's murder of the four persons most loved by Jason.

While Thomas Spackman's portrayal of Jason tends to be inconsistent, Kisicki renders an excellent supporting role as Aegus. Hamacher is entirely in command of his role as Creon.

"Medea" is featured in the Hilberry Theater now through April. Schedule and ticket information may be obtained from the Wayne State University Theater box office in the Hilberry lobby, Cass and Hancock. Tickets at regular box office prices are available through Hudson's ticket offices.

HARPER JANE McAdoo plays the title role in Robinson Jeffers' version of "Medea," in the Hilberry Theater.

'Monte Cristo' opens in Bonstelle

A new stage version of "The Count of Monte Cristo," Alexander Dumas' 19th century adventure tale, opens Friday, Feb. 28 at 8:30 p.m. in Wayne State University's Bonstelle Theater, 3424 Woodward, Detroit.

Additional performances are March, 7, 8 at 8:30 p.m. and March 2, 9 at 2:30 p.m.

The cast includes Tom Kjellberg of Garden City. Other members are Stephen Isbell, Cheryl Emanuel, Dale Van Dorp, Robert Hellstein, Deborah Stover and Nicholas Calanni.

The new dramatizatization is by Marshall Borden, professional actor, who was amember of Wayne State University's Hilberry Repertory Company from 1964-1967.

"Monte Cristo," originally written as an historical novel, first appeared in installments in 1844-45. It appeared simultaneously with "The Three Musketeers" by the same author and the two made Dumas the uncrowned king of Paris. In various stage versions, both have continued to be popular theater pieces.

The production is directed by Don Blakely, with scenic design by Norman Hamlin, costumes by Gweneth West and lighting master consultant for the fencing in the show.

Reserved seat tickets at $2.50 are on sale at the WSU box office in the Hilberry Theater lobby, Cass and Hancock, and through Hudson's ticket offices. Door sale at the Bonstelle begins one hour before curtain.

Schoolcraft features harpsichordist

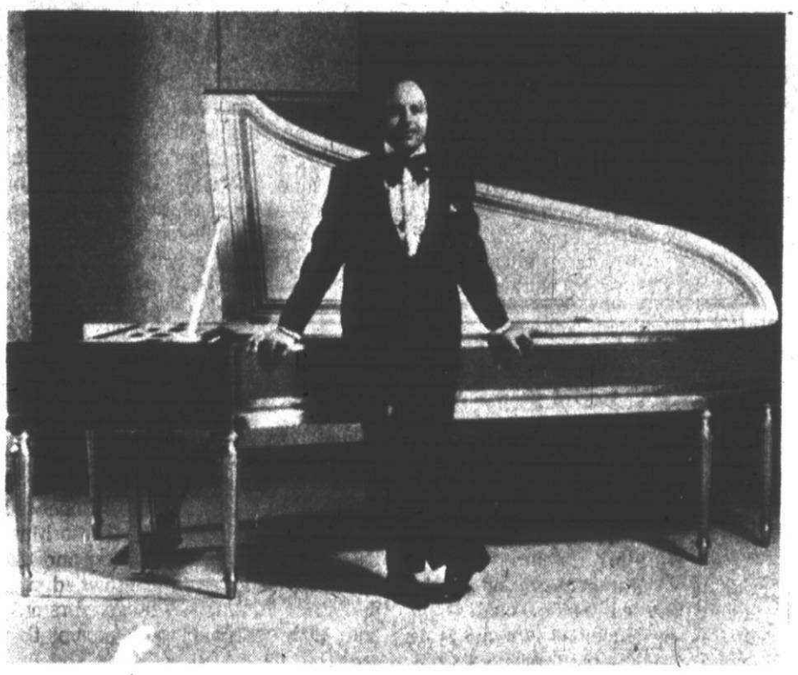

Schoolcraft College will present harpsichordist Igor Kipnis in a concert performance March 3 at 8 p.m. in the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

The program will consist of selected works by Bach and will include partita No. 1 in B-flat major, partita No. 2 in C minor and partita in B minor (The French Overture).

Kipnis, who is the son of former Metropolitan Opera bass Alexander Kipnis, made his debut as a harpsichordist in 1959 and has played throughout the United States, Canada, Europe, South America, Israel and Australia.

Kipnis is presently a professor of music at Fairfield University in Connecticut. He studied at Harvard University. He received the 1969 Deutsche Schallplatten prize and the Stereo Review Record of the year awards in 1971 and 1972.

The concert is sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Cultural & Public Affairs Series. Tickets at $3 may be purchased in the college bookstore, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia. They may also be ordered by mailing a check or money order and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the bookstore. No phone orders will be accepted.

Symphony offers March 2 concert

A flurry of activity is going on in Plymouth Symphony circles.

Next concert will be Sunday, March 2 at 4 p.m. in the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, Joy west of Canton Center Road. Conductor Wayne Dunlap feels the all-orchestral program will challenge all the resources of the 90-plus members.

Chief work will be Tchaikovsky's sixth symphony, the famous "Pathetique." Two works new to Plymouth audiences also will be offered—the suite from the ballet "Les Biches" by Poulenc and "L'Ascension" by Messiaen.

At the March 2 concert, individual tickets will go on sale for the biggest event of the year—the April 26 presentation of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville." The Michigan Opera Theater will join the symphony for that Saturday evening presentation.

The audience can meet members of the orchestra over a cup of coffee at intermission at the March 2 concert, and after the performance the Plymouth Youth Symphony will conduct a bake sale as a fund-raising effort.

The Symphony League, one of the orchestra's most important and faithful supporters, will conduct a mini fashion show and concert the Saturday morning of March 15 at 10 a.m. in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Members of the Plymouth Youth Symphony will perform. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Premiere aids special causes

Premiere benefits of Barbara Streisand's newest movie, "Funny Lady," scheduled March 9 and 11 will aid the 1975 International Special Olympics and the Children's Leukemia Foundation.

The March 9 showing in the Northland Theater, Southfield, will benefit the special olympics. The metro Detroit showing will include a champagne reception for 400 persons at 7:30 p.m. More than 1,400 seats are available for the movie which begins at 8:45 p.m.

Proceeds from the premiere will go to the special olympics to be held Aug. 7-11 at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant.

Some 3,000 mentally retarded children and adults from throughout the United States, and several foreign countries are expected to participate in the event, being held for the first time in Michigan.

Tickets for the reception and movie are $35 per person. Tickets for the movie only are $10 each.

Detroit area Jaycees are helping with ticket sales. Coordinating the sales in the metro area is Al Spiro of Livonia. For tickets send check or money order to 1975 International Special Olympics, 28550 Five Mile, Livonia, 48151.

The showing on March 11 in the Northland Theater will aid the Leukemia Foundation. Donations are tax deductible. Person's obtaining patrons or sponsor tickets are invited to an after-glo in the Raleigh House, Southfield. For tickets call Dr. and Mrs. Alan Cornfield, 33803 Old Timber Road, Farmington, 48204.

Items wanted for art fair

Display tables are available for the art fair Sunday, March 29 in the Woodcrest Villa, 8300 Woodcrest Drive, off Wayne Road one-half mile north of Westland Center.

A big victory, small defeats result for 2nd District GOP

By TIM RICHARD

GRAND RAPIDS—Republicans from the 2nd Congressional District won one big victory and lost a few small ones at last weekend's GOP state convention.

Victories came in promoting district and local candidates to wider horizons. Losses came when the convention rejected even discussing several issues on taxation and immigration proposed by the Livonia and Plymouth delegates.

Outgoing district chairman Nancy Chase of Ann Arbor was elevated to first vice chairman of the state organization after William F. McLaughlin of Northville easily won a third term as state chairman. Mrs. Chase had built up such a strong lead by convention time that all opposition melted, and she became Michigan's No. 2 GOPolitician unanimously.

NEW CHAIRMAN of the 2nd District organization will be Mrs. Rae Weaver, also of Ann Arbor, but the Wayne County portion of the meandering district won three of the five top officer posts.

In a significant move for the young element, Michael Legg, 22, of Livonia, won the vice chairmanship—not as a "youth" representative but as a working politician. A Farmington High graduate, Legg has been active for years in Republican politics and is in his second term as a precinct delegate.

Legg will receive his bachelor degree in business administration from Mercy College of Detroit in April and plans to apply to a law school.

Two Plymouthites picked up district posts. Carol Sellman was elected secretary, and Mark McKelvey was made youth vice chairman. Pearl Albert of Monroe is the new treasurer.

The 2nd District's four members of the State Central Committee, governing body of the party between elections, will be Sylvia Skrel of Livonia (former Wayne-2nd chairman), David Leathley of Livonia (re-elected), Joseph Green of Monroe and Elizabeth Durbin of Ann Arbor.

Among 15 members of the district board of directors will be these Wayne-2nd members: Robert Krueger of Northville, Harry Greenleaf and Denise Radtke of Livonia, Anthony C. Licata and Barbara McKelvey of Plymouth.

THINGS DIDN'T go as well in the issues department.

Under a new procedure, the GOP has dropped the writing a platform and long list of resolutions and went instead to taking a survey of delegates on a limited number of issues, asking for "yes" or "no" responses after limited debate.

Unhappy with the procedure was Beverly Chiasson of Livonia, an alternate member of the issues committee. When she missed an issues committee meeting last December because of failure to receive a notice, she also missed her last chance to offer proposals from the Wayne-2nd.

Under the rules, Mrs. Chiasson's only method of getting consideration was to ask the convention for a waiver of the rules, and that required a two-thirds majority.

The convention gave approval for considering Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson's proposal to clip the wings of the state parole board, but refused to consider the four resolutions Mrs. Chiasson presented from the Wayne-2nd. They were:

- Shall the state forego any new or increased taxes?
- Shall the federal government aggressively pursue a policy of removing illegal aliens and prohibiting their employment?
- Shall the U.S. adopt a more restrictive immigration policy, at least for the duration of the economic recession?
- Shall the state require a five-year minimum prison penalty for crimes committed with firearms?

"I almost wish I had done what Brooks Patterson did and sent copies to all the delegates before the convention," said Mrs. Chiasson afterwards, "but that would have been expensive."

Patterson, possibly itching for higher office, not only printed a modest but impressive four-page pamphlet, but also had a large bulletin board display attacking the parole system.

SECOND DISTRICT and Wayne-2nd delegates voted much the same way the 1,200 other delegates did on the five issue questions posed to them.

The convention:

Rejected by a 71 per cent margin the question of state financial assistance to electric utilities. The 2nd District opposed the question 53-21 with one abstention, and the Wayne-2nd voted 21-6 against.

Approved overwhelmingly a five-year delay for the implementation of federal auto emissions control standards. The 2nd supported it 61-8 with 10 abstentions, and the Wayne-2nd voted 51-0 in favor.

Rejected by a 9-1 margin the requiring of party registration for voters in Michigan primaries—in effect, a "closed primary." The 2nd also opposed it 66-9, and the Wayne-2nd was opposed by a 26-4 vote.

Rejected by a 15-1 margin public financing of the campaigns for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general. The 2nd as a whole was only midly opposed, 67-11, and the Wayne portion was opposed 29-1.

Rejected by a majority the federal Consolidated Railway Corp.'s plan to abandon 37 per cent of Michigan rail trackage. The 2nd opposed the plan 38-25 with nine abstentions, but the Wayne-2nd approved it 13-10 with five abstentions.

People getting involved. They're behind a whole new way of banking

Not so long ago, we decided there was need in Livonia for a new kind of bank. A bank built on services people needed. Explained in language they could understand. By people willing to get involved—from teller right up to bank president.

Some said you couldn't run a bank that way anymore. But the first customers of Manufacturers Bank of Livonia didn't agree. They told their neighbors. And the bank grew.

There are many kinds of sporting equipment shows—boats, recreational vehicles and the like—but the most comprehensive seems to be Outdoorama, sponsored by the 150,000-member Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Outdoorama is scheduled for March 1-9 in the Detroit Artillery Armory on W. Eight Mile near Northland Center. Prices are $2.50 for persons 12 and older and $1 for children 5-11. Proceeds will further MUCC's conservation work.

For fishermen there will be 40 displays of everything from rods and locators to fishing and hunting camps. Camping gear, boats, bicycles, tents, motorcycles, campers, shotguns, backpacking gear, canoes, sailboats, scuba gear, glider kites and more will be on display.

Expert flycaster Bruce Brubaker will demonstrate that fine art. Returning will be last year's highly popular exhibit by the Southeastern Michigan Bassmasters.

Pheasant and quail eggs will be hatched throughout the show. Duck calling contests and lessons, air rifle target shooting lessons and demonstrations, a "Katch-um and Keep-um" trout pond and scuba diving demonstrations are other attractions.

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP in Oakland County used to be in the hinterlands, but time and suburban growth are changing that.

Hunting restrictions will be the topic of a public hearing there Tuesday, Feb. 25 at 7 p.m. in the Commerce Township Hall, 2840 Fisher Road, Walled Lake.

Commerce Township is west of West Bloomfield and northwest of Farmington Hills. It contains the Proud Lake State Recreation Area, Sherwood, Commerce and Lower Straits lakes.

The hearing will be held by the hunting control committee of the state Dept. of Natural Resources.

ANYONE WHO ENTERS will get at least an arm patch signifying his participation, and the top five winners will get certificates in the master angler competition sponsored by the DNR.

To enter, you will need two witnesses to attest in writing to the weight of your lunker, a closeup side-view photo, the catch location and date. A certified state scale (as in grocery stores and meat markets) must be used, and a DNR biologist must make positive identification if your catch is to be listed as a state record.

Get entry forms by writing to: DNR Fisheries Division, Mason Building, Lansing, Mi. 48926. District and regional DNR offices also have master angler entry forms.

Just to refresh your memory, here are some of the minimum entries' weights followed by the current state records:

Great Lakes muskie, 15 lbs. and 62-8; northern pike, 15 lbs. and 39 lbs.; brown trout, 5 lbs. (inland waters) and 26-10; largemouth bass, 5 lbs. and 11-15; perch, 1-4 lbs. and 15 inches, 3-12 lbs.

Anyone convicted of a game or fish law violation within the calendar year is ineligible for the award.

WITH THE NEW snow, rabbit tracking should improve. Rabbit season closes March 1 in the lower peninsula.

Local good spots are Holly and Rose townships in western Oakland County and western and southwestern Wayne County. If you're eyeing private property, ask the farmer first for permission.

AS WINTER drags on, ice fishing slows down.

Bluegills are still biting in Orion, Oxbow, Pontiac, Lakeville, Union and White Lakes in Oakland County. In Wayne County, little Phoenix Lake in Plymouth is still producing small bluegills and crappie.

Pike success is very spotty. Best Oakland lakes are Pontiac and Tipsico. A few tiger muskies are being taken in Pontiac and in Heron Lake in the Holly Recreation Area.

Ski touring easy

By SUE ROSIEK

If you don't have the nerve to schuss down a steep ski slope, or the cash to outfit yourself with the latest downhill equipment, why not try cross country skiing (ski touring)?

It's easy, safe, inexpensive, and a great way to enjoy winter. Cross country skiing gets you away from crowded slopes to experience the serenity and solitude of winter. Another advantage is you don't have to drive 50 miles to find a mountain. Cross country skiing can be done just about anywhere there is snow— golf courses, parks, fields, even in your own backyard.

It doesn't take months of lessons either. "If you can walk, you can cross country ski," says Doug Hill, manager of the Viking Ski Shop in Livonia.

EQUIPMENT INCLUDES skis, boots, poles, and bindings. A small knapsack is handy for food or a hot drink. Hill says the "best" cross country package costs about $130, but you can purchase good equipment for much less. Renting equipment also is a possibility, and generally costs between $5 and $6 per day.

Cross country skis are made of birch, usually with a mahogany finish. They are narrower and lighter than Alpine skis, explains Hill. They accommodate an easy gliding movement through the snow, unlike Alpine skis which are wider, to allow for faster sppeds, strength and stability.

CROSS COUNTRY poles are lighter than poles used for downhill skiing.

The boots are more like a comfortable walking shoe, continues Hill. They are attached to the ski at the toe, which allows for free and unrestricted movement.

Cross country skiers should dress warmly but take care not to overdress. Thermal underwear, jeans and a warm sweater are sufficient. If it's extremely cold, use a lightweight jacket.

Finding a place to cross country ski isn't difficult. Edward Hines Parkway, stretching from Dearborn to Northville, offers a variety of smooth rolling slopes, and it's free!

HAWTHORNE VALLEY Golf Club, an 18-hole course on Warren and Merriman Roads in Westland is open seven days a week for cross country skiers. For $1.50 per person, skiers can enjoy about 70 acres of gently sloping terrain. The course is open from about 9 a.m. until dark.

THE HURON-CLINTON Metropolitan Authority has opened a cross country ski rental and trail center in Kensington Metropark near Milford.

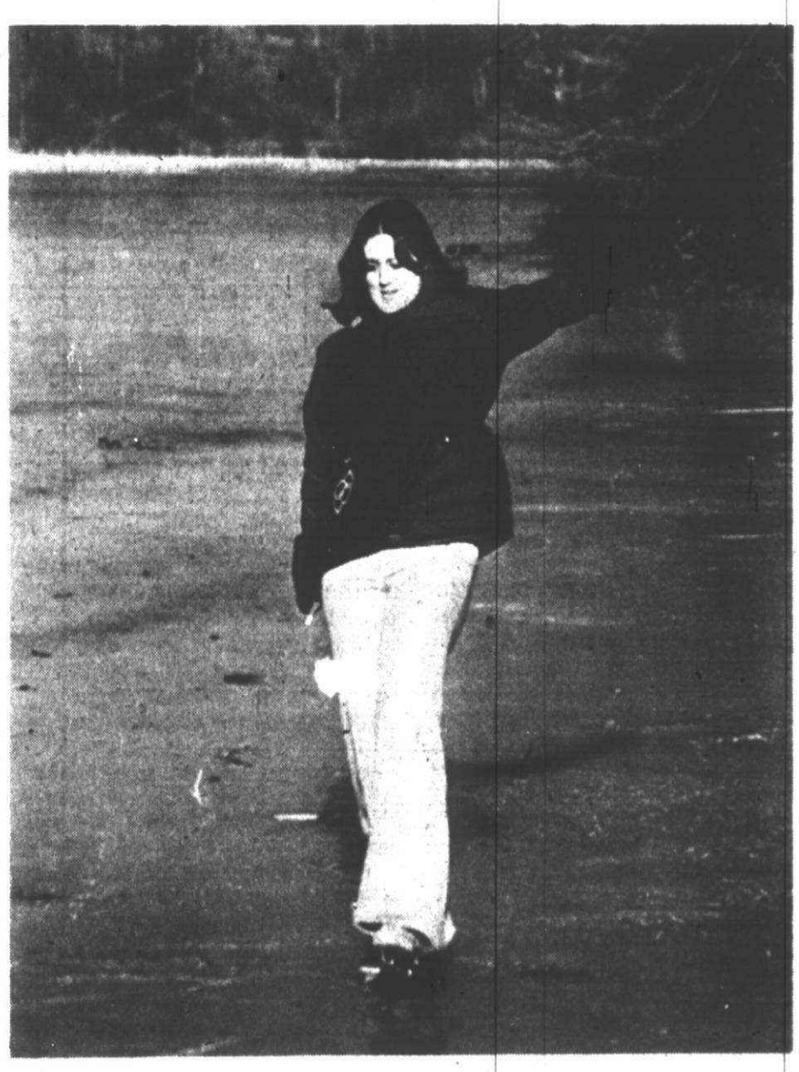

Rental service is available in the golf course starter building seven days a week. Rental rates per person are $3.50 for a half-day, and $5 for a full day. It's open from 9 a.m. until dark on weekdays and from 8 a.m. until dark on weekends (snow conditions permitting).

LESSONS ALSO are available each Saturday at 1 p.m. There is no vehicle entry permit charged during the winter months at Kensington.

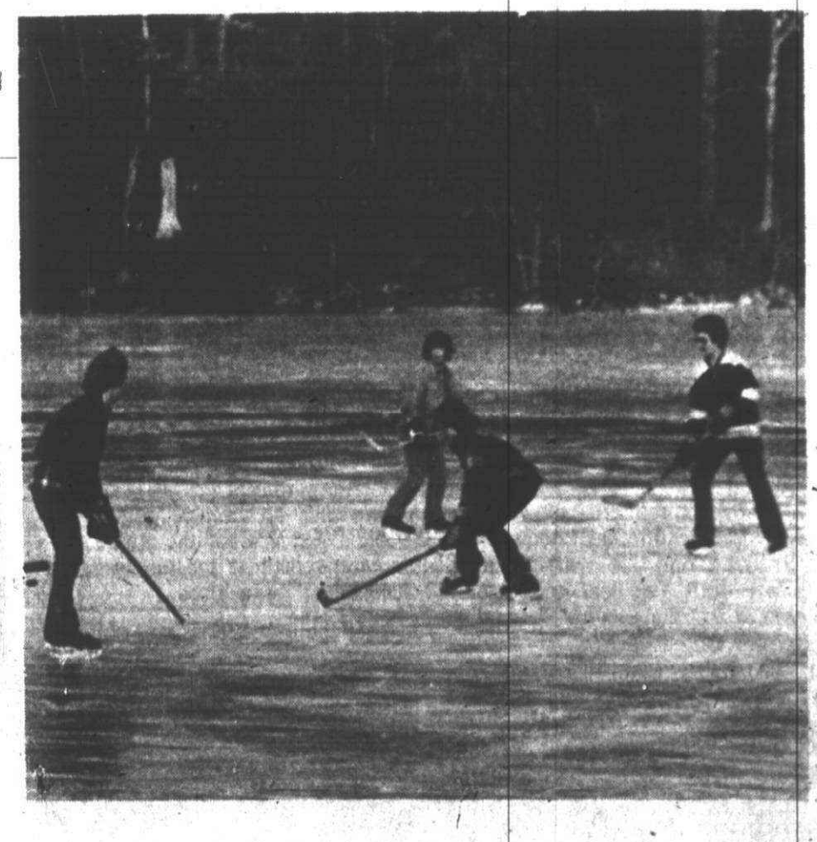

STATE PARKS and national forests in northern Michigan offer marked trails for cross country enthusiasts. Information is available from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Lansing.

The Southfield Department of Parks and Recreation offers group ski trips every Sunday, weather permitting. Interested skiers should meet at 9:30 a.m. inside the ice arena around the fireplace in the Southfield Civic Center, near the corner of Evergreen and Lincoln Drive, Southfield. The group will drive to local ski area. Instructions are given at $1.50 per person and 75 cents for persons under 16. The group returns betweenn 2 and 3 p.m. Ski rental is available. Call the civic center on Saturday for confimation of Sunday's trip.

Is woman's place on the speaker's platform? Two of them who are community leaders seem to feel at home there

Jean Budd talks on morality before woman accountants

JEAN BUDD

By MARGARET MILLER

A public speaking facility gained through helping advertise accounting as a career is taking Jean Budd of Livonia to the the principal speaker's role when her women accountants' organization meets next week.

Mrs. Budd will talk about "Profit Motives vs. Social Responsibilities" before the dinner meeting of the Detroit chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants Tuesday, Feb. 25, in the Women's City Club in downtown Detroit.

Training through the group's speakers' bureau and deep distress over a view of Watergate and its aftermath brought this self-employed accountant to that podium.

So, three days after the birthday of George Washington, she'll be ready with a speech that includes an admonition quoted from the first president.

It reads "Let us with caution indulge in the superstition that morality can prevail to the exclusion of religios principles," and she'll add her own belief that Washington's advice should be heeded "by those who presume to frolic in false emancipation."

MRS. BUDD SAID she developed ideas for her speech on morality out of observations of many businesses.

"I've seen some shady dealings," she said, "and then there was Watergate and all that followed."

She said she began thinking that the American people are now demanding "purity in Washington" but she wondered if the same high standards are set for business dealings.

She added that she finds "a minor violation or a capital crime" equally capable of "rotting the fabric of American society," and said she will tell the women that "by being upright and honorable individually we can control the major part of illegal actions in business."

SEVERAL ASSIGNMENTS within the women accountants' organization have helped Jean Budd gain ease as a speaker.

She has for a couple of years been busy with a program in which the group took a film on accounting as a career, made by the Encyclopedia Britianica, to high school groups.

The program for career days and special convocations as well as use in business classes has proved most successful, Mrs. Budd said.

"In fact," she added, "we had so many requests for presentations that our group now is working with the Michigan CPA group, Internal Auditors and the Black Accountants association."

MRS. BUDD now is subcommittee chairperson for the speaker's bureau for the American Society of Women Accountants, and in that capacity she is working on varied means to involve more women accountants in public speaking.

Another project is making up a kit to send to other chapters of the ASWA to help them spread the word of the opportunities for women in accounting.

THIS BUSINESSWOMAN, who has operated an accounting firm with her husband, Edward, on Plymouth Road, has recently been involved with a course at Schoolcraft College titled "The Money-Wise Woman."

"I took a course at Schoolcraft called "joy in the Middle Years," she said, "and then the staff asked me if I would be willing to teach one about the financial things so many women just don't know.

"I've found it very fulfilling," she said.

Reservations for the dinner at the City Club may be made by calling Mrs. Donna Johnson of Livonia by Feb. 20.

NANCIE BLATT

It's political involvement for Nancie Blatt

The Town and Country chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) has asked Livonian Nancie Blatt to be speaker for the organization's 13th annual February program of the year.

The member secretaries would like her to talk at a Feb. 25 dinner meeting in LeRight's restaurant in Westland about what's involved in political involvement. They've come to the right lady.

Mrs. Blatt has been a member of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees since January of 1973. Parent-Teacher Association leadership and school election involvement brought her to that post.

She also is an alternate member of the Democratic State Central Committee. Odd jobs like envelope-stuffing for the party of her choice began the road to that involvement.

MRS. BLATT'S TOPIC for the dinner meeting will be "This Is Your Life—Participate in It."

In making the appearance for the secretarial group's focus on political science and politics, she will represent the Livonia League of Women Voters speaker's bureau.

"They asked for a speaker who could tell them how to get involved in politics," she said.

"I'm very glad to fill the spot. I figure the more women we can get involved, especially women who have not been involved before, the better our grass roots politics will be."

ESTHER VOTS, president of the locally-based NSA Town and Country chapter, said the political science topic had been chosen by the association on a national basis.

The Town and Country group is one of 700 in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico participating in the program theme.

Mrs. Vots quoted M. Ursulle Gallerani, a certified public secretary and NSA international president, as saying:

"Secretaries, as good citizens, are concerned with improving and protecting the democratic process. That is why NSA has undertaken a program of political science. Ignorance and indifference do not constitute excuses for poor government. We can only make something work effectively by understanding how it works."

MRS. BLATT SAID she would use two LVW booklets, "Voting in Livonia" and "Grass Roots" in her talk for the secretaries.

"I'll first go into working for candidates in the non-partisan city and school elections, because I think a lot of people feel more comfortable in that situation.

"Then we'll get into party politics, particularly running for precinct delegate."

A GRADUATE of the University of Michigan with a master's in political science, Nancie Blatt has been a Livonia resident for 17 years. She and her husband, Martin, have three daughters, Lauren, 16, Susan, 14, and Stephanie, 8.

Mrs. Blatt has done substitute teaching in the Livonia school district and now is working in sales for the Stewart Oxygen Service, which makes and leases portable emergency oxygen inhalors.

Appointed a Schoolcraft trustee two years ago, she was elected to the board in June of 1973.

Her appointment came after she had served as president of the Tyler elementary school PTA and had worked on school elections and for several candidates.

On the board, she has served as an alternate to SEMCOG and represented the group as a delegate to the American Association of Junior Colleges convention in 1973.

POLITICALLY, she had done odd jobs in Democratic campaigns and became more active in the party and took out state membership after formation of the Livonia Interested Democrats in 1972.

She was elected that year to serve as a Livonia charter commissioner, but the post was meaningless because the charter itself was turned down.

Last year was elected a delegate from the 2nd Congressional district to the Democratic Reform Convention in Kansas City.

His citation stirs memories

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Marcus Bass of Livonia is the proud possessor of a citation and medal from the French government.

They were sent in recognition of the part he played in the famous evacuation of the beaches of Dunkirk at the beginning of World War II.

But Bass, formerly English, does not wish to reserve the newly-arrived honor for himself. "I am sure that others who were at Dunkirk must be living in this area," he said. "Their present addresses may not be known abroad. I'd like to find them and tell them they, too, are eligible for this medal, and possibly another that has been struck by the Belgian government.

"I am also trying to activate a chapter of the Dunkirk Veterans Association. It would be nice if a group of us could join in a pilgrimage to Dunkirk now being planned by the Canadian chapter."

BASS'S NAME and address were already on record because of his membership in this veterans organization and because he maintains ties with friends and relatives in England.

Although a resident of the Detroit area since 1955, Bass still retains the accent he acquired growing up in the British Isles. And he remembers his escape from Dunkirk as though it were yesterday.

"I was a sergeant major in the Royal Engineers," he recalled. "We were building an airfield in France when the Germans began breaking through.

"Things got a little sticky so we began to retreat."

Falling back, his group moved toward Dunkirk to join more than 300,000 British soldiers, all awaiting rescue. Meanwhile a call had gone out in Britian asking that every warship, pleasure craft, tug boat or freighter hasten across the English Channel to save the British Army.

"The Stukas and Messerschmidts were bombing the hell out of us," said Bass. "We were frequently dive-bombed. The planes came straight down with terrible whistles designed to frighten us. Just when we thought they would hit us, they pulled up and we could see the bombs dropping from under the fusilage."

BASS WAS LUCKY enough to be picked up by a destroyer, HMS Javelin. But first he had to stand in water up to his armpits for four hours with his gun in one hand and the outfit's records in the other, waiting for his turn in the longboat sent in by the destroyer.

He also was suffering from wounds in his knees, the first of five wounds he was to receive before the war ended.

"The scene with the longboat sticks in my mind," Bass smiles. "There were two sailors in it. One of them was wearing the shiniest black patent leather shoes you ever saw. It seemed unreal because we were just off the beaches and felt and looked very grubby."

Bass can't forget how calm the two sailors were, saying in matter-of-fact voices, "Come on, chaps, hurry up — we haven't got all day."

The ship landed in Dover, England 12 hours later. "Despite the fact we were bedraggled and miserable, our officer called us to attention and we marched off the ship in style."

The recollection of this Bridge-on-the-River-Kwai kind of scene can still bring tears to the eyes of the formet sergeant major.

THIS WAS JUST the beginning of the war for Bass, who was later to be part of the British invasion of Africa in 1942 and the Salerno landings in 1943. With his outfit he invaded France near Marsailles some time after D-Day in Normandy, to prevent a German retreat.

"We went up through Belgium and Holland and crossed the Rhine on a swaying substitute for the bridge at Riemagen," says Bass.

After the peace, Bass was stationed in a German town called Munster when a memorable Christmas incident took place.

"We had a Christmas service with some of the local German kids. Because I had studied German in school I was able to sing the whole service in German. How about that? There was I, a Jewish sergeant helping to bring Christmas to German kids.

"These are the moments that stick in your mind."

BASS PROBABLY would still live in England were it not for the fact that in 1955 there was a meeting in Detroit of the Michigan Cosmetologist Association. With his brothers, Bass had entered the hairdressing profession in England.

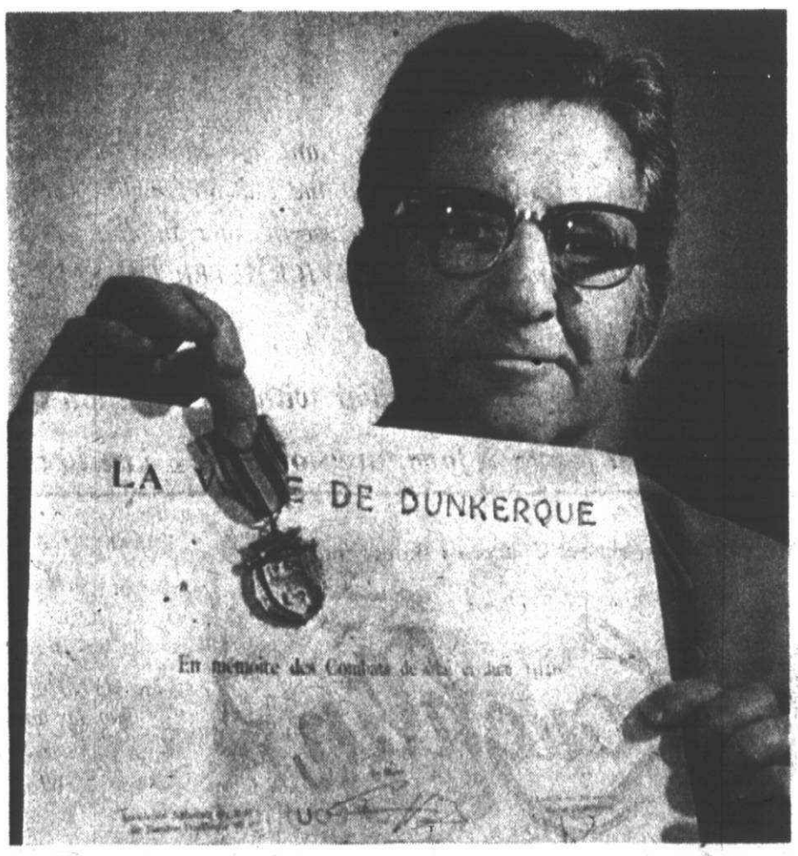

They sent him to the convention as their representative, and thereby lost themselves a partner. While here he met Joyce Seedberg of Detroit.

Nothing was said of marriage until Bass had one more adventure in his already adventurous life.

"During a terrible storm in March, 1955 my plane back to England crash-landed on an island of Nova Scotia. We had to stay there four days. I called collect to ask Joyce to marry me." She said yes.

The couple now live at 18420 Fremont with their three children, Sharon, 18; Dilyse, 14, and Harold, 13.

Bass has been active in Livonia community affairs, serving as deputy assistant director of civil defense, president of the Livonia Jewish Congregation and and member of the advisory council to the Livonia Board of Education.

"I hope you freeze," I told our Girl Scout leader daughter who was looking forward with pleasure to a weekend of winter camping with a bunch of little girls.

I didn't mean it, of course. The conversation was just part of our winter-long discussion of her love of winter as opposed to my increasingly bah-humbug attitude toward the cold months of the year.

That argument begins at low key each year and picks up momentum as I get colder.

THIS DAUGHTER always has been a snow nut, and this increased a year or so back when she joined a college ski club and became a ski nut too.

It was back around Thanksgiving that her club began some "think snow" slogan nonsense. I protested it was too early for the white stuff, and even she had to admit after the first of December that they overdid it a bit.

When their school closed down for a few days because of the big storm, they put up some signs that advised "unthink snow."

I MADE AN ADMISSION of my own at that point of the winter. I had to concede therewas some value in having a snow enthusiast around when there's 20 inches of the darned stuff all over the long driveway.

Her shoveling energy was invaluable in getting us dug out.

All winter the dialogue goes on. Some of us in the family thrill to the beauty of falling snow; I can only worry about slippery roads.

Some are pleased about good skating when the temperatures plunge; I find I get chilled all the way through.

AND MAYBE I'm admitting my age, but I'm sure every winter is longer than the one before and this is the most unending yet.

But back to that camping trip. The leaders and the kids did strange things like going horseback riding and hiking when the temperatures were not too far above zero.

I shivvered just hearing about it. Even our snow-and-winter buff admitted it was a little chilly.

But they didn't freeze. I'm glad, I guess.

New probate judge explains new status of children

BY MARGARET MILLER

Children have a relatively new status in the eyes of the law, and newly-elected Probate Judge Gladys Barsamian sees that status as both a problem and a possible solution.

Judge Barsamian, visiting the Livonia GOP Women to install new officers for the group recently, said the functions of probate court had seen change under the U.S. Supreme Court ruling that minors have full rights of adults.

Complying with such provisions takes valuable time, she said, so there are delays in dealing with specific cases.

That's a good share of the problem, as she sees it.

"But these procedures mean better records will be kept showing the ages of the persons coming before the court," she added, "and that means we can better pinpoint our needs for rehabilitation facilities."

That could point toward a solution of some part of the juvenile delinquency problem, the judge added.

CHILDREN COME into juvenile court, a division of probate, either because they have committed an offense or because some offense has been committed against them, such as neglect or abuse, the judge said.

In either case, she went on, all parties must be apprised of their rights and attorneys must be engaged and hearings must be scheduled.

"And while this is going on we are supposed to work with the child and the parents," she said. "I think we sometimes lose sight of the fact that we are there to reunite a family whenever possible."

Delays can be long, she added, and the court lacks supportive services that can help families understand their problems and work toward solutions.

"So our return rate is high," she said. "Kids keep coming back."

JUDGE BARSAMIAN, elected in November with Thomas Maher to join Judge James Lincoln in Juvenile Court, said that when she was campaigning she felt there was "a lot of hostility toward kids."

"I understand, but I see their problem too," she said. "They come into a court without adequate supportive services, and then when they reach 19 we must let them go to be treated as adults."

She said the need for supportive services is brought home to her when she hears a familiar refrain on the part of a parent charged with neglect: "I don't neglect my child; we have a color television."

"Parents need counseling so they can understand that watching all those big cars on a color TV can be very bad for a child who feels he's going nowhere," the judge added.

THE SPEAKER described herself as "right now a judge without a courtroom" and said she was visiting various facilities such as the Wayne County youth shelter at Whitmore Lake while remodeling is going on so that there can be room for three juvenile judges at 1025 E. Forest.

"With three of us there, we should be able to do a better job in filling the needs of juveniles who come into court." Judge Barsamian said.

After her talk, she presided at the installation of the club's new officers.

Jan Glover is taking over the president's post. Working with her will be Ann Wood, vice president, Audrey Greenleaf, recording secretary, Peg Sontag, corresponding secretary and Laura Baumhart, treasurer.

Westland man offers to shed light on Islam

By MARGARET MILLER

Many people, Dr. Shameem A. Razvi of Westland has noted, seem to think of Moslems as worshipers of Mohammed. Or promoters of violence. Or Black Muslims.

Actually, Moslems are none of these, says this schoolman who has a doctorate in supervision and administration and is employed by the Detroit Board of Education.

And to promote understanding of the Islam religion, he is offering to visit church, school and club groups with a short talk and a readiness to answer questions.

"I HAVE FOUND many misconceptions on the part of the American people," he said. "They just do not know about the Islam religion.

"And then there's been the growth of the Black Muslim group and all the publicity about it and that has become mixed up with what understanding there is.

"I'd like to explain our religion so people in this area would know us better. The world is getting so small that it's better to know each other well than to be belligerent about our differences."

DR. RAZVI BEGAN a similar program several years ago when he was working on his doctorate at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

"A Buffalo newspaper ran a story about me," he said, "and then I started getting a lot of calls from adult education classes and church groups.

DR. SHAMEEM A. RAZVI, educator who lives in Westland, would like to increase understanding of the the Islam faith among people of this area. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

"I was glad to visit them and explain a little more about my religion. Usually I would speak about 10 or 15 minutes and then try and answer any questions that people would ask. I'd be glad to do the same thing here. There would be no charge, of course."

A WESTLAND RESIDENT for nearly a year, Dr. Razvi was born in Arabia but his family settled in India when he was a child. He moved to Pakistan in 1968, and earned two degrees in the university there before coming to this country.

He has a master's degree from the University of Detroit.

Dr Razvi is founder of Moslem Student Associations both in New York and Detroit.

He served for a year as president of the Detroit group, which holds prayer meetings on the Wayne State University campus and has between 300 and 400 members.

He also has served as president of the Pakistan Cultural Group in the Detroit area.

DR. RAZVI and his wife, Zia, have two children. Their son, Tariq, 8, was born while they lived in New York, and their three-year-old daughter, Ashi, was born here.

The family attends Islam services regularly with a group that meets in the Joy-Southfield area of Detroit.

"Our services are on Sundays," he said. "They should be Fridays, but in this country Friday is a working day."

He said one of the first mistakes people of Western cultures make about Moslems is to call them Mohammedans.

"That is a misnomer," he explained. "We do not worship Mohammed.

"And there is much misunderstanding about agressiveness—the idea that we live by the sword. Also about polygamy in our culture," he said.

Groups interested in hearing Dr. Razvi may reach him through his brother, Fitrat Mohani, 33505 Cowan, Westland.

2 churches offer concert

The wind ensemble of North Park College in Chicago will perform in the world headquarters building of the Ford Motor Co., Michigan and Southfield, on Thursday, Feb. 27 at 8 p.m.

The Dearborn and Detroit Evangelical Covenant churches are sponsoring the concert, one of 12 on the group's 1975 tour. Stuart Uggen is the director.

Piggy-bank money is all it takes to move into a Levitt townhome.

Maybe you don't have that big down payment money. So buying a house has been out of the question.

Not so.

Levitt has a plan that lets you move in now and they'll save up your down payment for you.

Here's how it works.

If you can qualify for a mortgage on the townhouse of your choice; and if you can put just a couple of hundred dollars down; Levitt's plan can work for you! Say your monthly payment turns out to be $273 per month. That's what it would be if you bought The Discover in Lake Village.* And that's what your rental might be right now. Well, all those $273 payments you make each month are put in an escrow account until the full down payment is accumulated. You can have months of great living in a brand new home, while you pile up that down payment. When you reach the required amount, you take title to your home.

Easy.

Does it make sense to pay rent when your monthly outlay can be put toward real estate of your own?

Come out to Lake Village and let our salesman put the facts into a smart computer. It will take just about two minutes to see if this plan is for you. Get your personal information on how to buy now with just "piggy-bank" money.

Lake Village Townhomes include:
★ Central air conditioning ★ Shag carpeting
★ Washer-dryer or Refrigerator-freezer
★ Dishwasher ★ Storm windows and screens
★ Garage ★ Basement (in most models).

Choice of buy or rent/buy options—

Now you can try before you buy. Your monthly rent buy charge includes water, heat, and the use of community facilities of swimming pool and clubhouse.

EXAMPLE:
Rent buy plan for 2 bedroom, 1½ bath condominium with full basement and private garage.

Monthly charge
Part A — 1% of current Base Price ($37,990) $379.90
Part B — current Association fee 60.00
